Qigong – Improving your quality of life.

Qigong (Chi-Kung) has been used for thousands of years to help improve people's quality of life; it is a part of the holistic system of Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM). The dynamic forms and stillness meditation help regulate the meridian system, releasing stress, increase health and longevity as well as developing spiritual perception and awareness.

Simon Blow had a near fatal accident at the age of nineteen that led him to investigate various methods of healing and rejuvenation. He has been on this path for over twenty five years.

Simon is a Master Teacher (Laoshi), based in Sydney. He has been leading regular classes for beginning and continuing students since 1992. Simon has received training and certification from Traditional Chinese Medical Hospitals and Taoist Monasteries in China, and has been given authority to share these techniques.

He has received World Health Organisation Certification in Medical Qigong clinical practice from the Xiyuan Hospital in Beijing. He has been initiated into Dragon Gate Taoism and given the name of Xin Si, meaning Genuine Wisdom. Simon is a Standing Council Member of the World Academic Society of Medical Qigong in Beijing.

From the President

Happy New Year! I'm writing this on 1.1.11, an interesting sequence of numbers. This year heralds the energy of the 'Individual' where people will have a chance to reclaim their own power and to get a better chance to discover their inner selves. This should be a great year for Dowsers.

It will also be a great year for the Society's members who will have a chance to attend our scintillating series of seminars. Do not miss any, here is the list for 2011:

'Beginners & Refresher', February 27, with Colin and Julie Zwan. (Application Form on page 14).

'Dowsing For Water', April 23-24, with Trevor Harding at his farm near Mudgee. (Book early if you want a room, camping also available)

'Scientific Dowsing', July 31, with Francois Capmeil

'Advanced Pathway to Health', October 30, with Guy Kramhoft.

All seminars, apart from Trevor's will be at Hunters Hill Community Centre.

Please put these in your diary now so as to avoid disappointment. In between these seminars there will be field trips and our usual monthly meetings.

Our constitution provides for a minimum number of Officers and Council members. This year we will be offering more members a chance to serve the Society as council members. This will provide for a more vibrant Society and for succession when people have to stand down.

I have moved back to my old apartment in the city, my new phone number is on the back page of this newsletter. See you soon.

An Introduction to Colour Therapy

by Francois Capmeil

One of our Society's members, Basil Kelse, called me recently for a chat. During the conversation he mentioned a Color Therapy Clinic in Cambridge, near Hamilton in New Zealand from where he had received treatment. Coincidentally I had just booked some flights to Auckland and I had a spare day I could spend driving down to Hamilton and visiting the clinic. So I called the clinic (The Brooker Colour Therapy Clinic) and asked if I could come down to learn more about this colour therapy, and maybe try it for myself. Allan, the clinic owner, was happy to talk to me, and organize a treatment so that I could experience the therapy first hand.

The two hours drive from Auckland airport down to Cambridge, past Hamilton is very pleasant. The road follows a large valley amidst lush green fields. At this time of the year the paddocks are full of horses and young calves.

I was greeted at the clinic by Terry, a colour therapy practitioner working with Allan. He explained the principles of colour therapy to me, “Everything is made of frequencies including the pathogens which make us sick, like bacteria, viruses and fungi. All of these unwelcome passengers in our body have a specific frequency at which they shatter, just like the voice of an opera singer which shatters a crystal glass by reaching the resonant frequency of the glass.” A special radionics machine is used to transfer the required frequencies to the patient through wires attached to the wrist and /or ankles by arm bands.

The consultation: Terry takes me to the diagnostic room. On his desk is a thick binder. On each page are 36 loops of coloured threads called ‘Colour Tabulations’. Some are made of cotton, some of wool, each one corresponds to the frequency of a pathogen. The entire binder would probably contain thousands of tabulations. After explaining the concept, Terry asks me to place my hand on a piece of glass on his desk. He then takes his dowsing rod (Y-rod) and dowses each page of the binder for a response; When he gets a response, he then goes through each of the 36 colour tabulations on that page for a match to my body. When he finds one, his rod dips in response. He then removes the corresponding tabulation and hands it over to Rosanne, his assistant, who records on a computer the details of the tabulation's label, name of the pathogen etc.

Terry found 9 colour tabulations which resonated with my body. Two in particular worried Terry. He then rechecked them several times to make sure, then he said with a serious tone: "This is not good, we do not like to see this, you need to get 'onto it' before it becomes a serious condition, let's treat you today and see what happens at the end of the day". I gladly agreed. I am generally very healthy, but God only knows what can be brewing silently, behind the scenes.

Once Terry has gone over the entire binder page by page, Rosanne explains how the treatment works. In the diagnostics room is a colour therapy machine with metal cups numbered from 1 to 30. Each one is connected to a wire leading to the treatment room through the wall. In the treatment room, the wires are connected to wrist bands on each side of comfortable armchairs, each with a number corresponding to the numbers of the colour machine's metal cups. The coloured tabulations for your treatment are placed in separate cups connected to one of the 4 arm bands near your seat.

I sat down and Rosanne hooked my wrists and ankles to the arm bands; while in the diagnostic room, Terry inserted the first four tabulations he found earlier for me, into the corresponding metal cups. Considering the nasty pathogens Terry found, he suggested I spend the entire day in the clinic, connected to the wires. So I settled into my arm chair and relaxed. I felt a very faint and pleasant buzz from the straps, which faded as time went by. During the course of the day, I was offered cups of tea, I read magazines, and I started this article on my notebook computer. Time passed quickly talking to the other patients, everyone happy to share their personal stories. I felt very grateful for the series of ‘coincidences’ which led me to the colour treatment.

Christine

Two of the people in the clinic were being treated for cancer. One of them, a lively and sweet lady called Christine was diagnosed 3 years ago with cancer of the jaw which had already spread to her entire body. She shared her story with us. She said “The problem started after a visit to the dentist identified cancer in my jaw. It quickly spread to the rest of my body, particularly the hip, arms and legs where I felt the pain eating at me, but I refused the standard chemo and radiation treatments and instead searched for alternatives which led me to find the Colour Therapy Clinic.”

Within a week of coming every day, her pain disappeared. Since then she has come at regular intervals, spending a week or two at a time at the clinic. She sleeps in her van, backed against the clinic window, so she can be connected to the colour machine during her sleep in the parking lot. She is now hooked to wires straps like me, but her treatment is supplemented by a yellow coloured beam from a large bioptron lamp pointed at her cheek. She has been here every day for the last 2 weeks as longer healing time is needed due to the advanced cancer stage. She said “compared with someone on chemo-therapy, my quality of life is excellent, I feel no pain, big painful lumps on my right arm and left leg have gone, and other symptoms are slowly disappearing. It is now three years since I was diagnosed with metastased cancer by the medical profession and I am still alive, I enjoy a good quality of life and I am happy”. I enjoyed her company. Quality of life is an important aspect which is all too often destroyed by chemo-therapy and radiation therapy.

Various other people are being treated in the clinic. Another lady had such bad arthritis she could not walk. She now walks properly and leads a normal life, but she comes every now and then for treatment to make sure it does not come back. They all spend the day in the treatment room with me, all very cheerful, and happy in this relaxed atmosphere. One lady explained that Allan found a pathogen related to cattle ticks in her body, it turns out that she lived in Ireland and got cattle ticks there. These microbes combine with other pathogens to create symptoms in the body that are very hard for normal medical procedures to link back to their original cause.

Terry found the Polio virus in my test. I never suffered from polyo, at least I never had any symptoms but I remember when I was 10, I was vaccinated for polio like all the kids in school. Coincidentally, sometime after that, I got terribly sick for several weeks with muscular fever. I could not move and all my joints ached terribly. I got better, moved on and forgot this episode. No one ever linked the two. At that time no one would question these things, but obviously the polio virus could have stayed in my body and could even have been responsible for that illness back then. But today it has joined with another bug to create problems in my shoulder joints.

In the afternoon Allan, the owner, came for a chat with me. He is a very nice and cheerful person. I invited him to come and give a talk to the Society. He assured me that he would be delighted to do so.

Around 5:00pm, Terry called me over to the diagnostics room for a re-check. He found that 4 out of the 9 pathogens had been killed, but not the polio one. He was also most concerned about 2 of the remaining ones, which are nasty. One has to do with the prostate, the other digestion. So I asked him what my options were. He said: "The only way is to spend more time on the machine, but I cannot tell you how much time will be required".

Right away, I made the decision to postpone my return by one day, and to give myself a better chance to heal completely. Seeing this, Terry offered to lend me a small portable colour machine and the colour tabulations for these two nasty pathogens, so that I could be treated during the night. He also put me briefly on a more powerful machine as a booster.

Back at the motel, I organized the change of flights, extended the rental car contract and connected the portable colour machine. The small machine had only 2 cups for the colour tabulations connected to 2 wires, a small light bulb and a control box. I got to bed with the wires attached to one leg and one arm. It did not bother me much and I slept well.

The colour machine

In the morning the machine was still running and I was still connected. After waking up, I anxiously drove to the clinic, wondering if the treatment was enough. Terry was there again and tested me. I was very happy to see that Terry's Y-rods did not respond when he came to the two nasty pathogen's colours. To make sure he re-tested me several times, but his rods did not react at all. I felt very grateful, imagining what the future could have been for me otherwise. These bugs could have eaten at me silently and one day I could have been diagnosed with a major life threatening problem like cancer, it gave me goose bumps.

Somehow two other pathogens still needed attention. I must admit that my shoulders felt much better and only hurt mildly when I woke up. So I was happy to spend the day again in the clinic hooked to the four wires again. Christine was still there, happily sitting in the same armchair. Other people were there too, and I heard more success stories. Apparently Allan has a room at the back of the clinic where people with severe disability can stay the night and be treated while they sleep. It is currently occupied by a couple. The man has Motor-Neurone disease. Before commencing the treatment, a few weeks ago, he could not walk and had great difficulties speaking. Today I saw him walk with a cane and he spoke slowly but clearly. There was a very nice energy in the room, everyone shared stories, recipes and personal experiences.

There is a certain openness required to accept the concepts of Colour Therapy. Once a person has reached that stage, many other opportunities for growth and healing will open up. It forces a review of one's beliefs and an acceptance of the spiritual side of life, that life is not just about eating and sleeping, that there are energies and forces which are not yet accepted by science, but which are present and at work in and around us.

By the end of my second day of treatment, only one pathogen remained, to do with the pain in my shoulder. This pathogen most likely has other side effects like tiredness and sleepiness, but nothing life threatening. Nevertheless, it would be nice to get rid of this pain. I have a sneaky suspicion that this pathogen came with one of the many vaccinations that we got as kids, because I have had a slightly painful shoulder most of my life. After a while you do not even notice the pain, but as old age creeps up, it becomes more noticeable and more permanent.

Terry lent me the small portable machine again, this time with 2 new colours. I would return the machine the next morning before driving back to Auckland. He also offered to test me again later as the two nasty pathogens could make a return and I definitely do not want to have that threat hanging over my head. He suggested I mail a tissue with a few drops of urine for testing in a few weeks time.

Allan's father, Don, has written a book about Colour Therapy. I will try to paraphrase some interesting segments of this book for you. I purchased a copy of this book for the Society's Library, so you may get a chance to read it, if you wish.

By experience, Don found that his colour healing does destroy viruses, bacteria, fungi, parasites and diseased tissues. It does remove infections provided that a colour thread of cotton, wool or silk exists to match the colour frequency of the infecting agent. When asked what the success rate is, Don said “The colour therapy system always destroys the infection it is aimed at, provided the patient completes the treatment, and that the infection is not so great as to be beyond the capacity of the colour machine.” He has not yet discovered that limit.

Some of the most common viruses that are destroyed by colours are herpes simplex in all its forms (cold sores in all its forms, mouth ulcers and V.D.) It kills herpes zoster in chicken pox and in shingles, all the three polio viruses, mumps, measles, hepatitis A and B.

Can it be used alongside other therapeutic methods? “Yes, because it reduces the work to be done. Conversely, the colour helps all other methods and does not interfere with any of them.”

Does the mere destruction of the microbe responsible for a disease, ensure its cure? Is it enough to kill the offending microbes? Allan says: “In most cases the answer is yes. It is enough to kill the offending pathogen to cure the patient. In some cases this is not enough. So much tissue damage may have occurred that the body is unable to repair it all.”

History of the Colour Therapy: One of the originators of the Colour Therapy in New Zealand was Herbert George. His colour machine consisted of a copper coil wound on a plastic cylinder pointed at the patient with the colour tabulation hung on a bare wire at the end of the coil. The coil was activated by outside radio frequencies (RF) from broadcasts and TV stations. Later R.F. Liley realized that over long periods, these passive coils generate harmful ‘Iridium Frequencies’. Liley designed a machine which generated its own RF using an induction coil from a Ford engine. The machines used today also generate their own RF well outside of the radio and TV broadcast range to avoid interferences.

At the end of his successful healing career Liley trained Don Brooker (Allan’s father), and passed onto him his machines and tabulations. At the end of his healing career, Don passed them to Allan, who followed in the footsteps of his father. Over the years, using new RF technology, Allan was able to develop more efficient colour therapy machines and add more colour tabulations.

During their years of successfully using this therapy, Mr Liley, Allan's father, and now Allan himself made many interesting observations regarding the effect of some of the pathogens they encountered. I will mention a few from Don's book, which are quite interesting. Curiously the medical profession has shown no interest in researching these findings, although with the current tools of microbiology this would be an easy task.

For example: allergy, hayfever and asthma, all show the presence of infection by whooping cough (Bordetella pertussis); it seems that even a small amount remaining alive in a vaccine is quite sufficient to start an allergy. In the case of hayfever and allergies, Allan treats B. pertussis. When this is done the symptoms disappear without being treated as such. For asthma, there are two active infections, first B. Pertussis and an infection by the polio virus, perhaps from an earlier vaccine. When both viral infections have been cleared, the asthma does not reoccur unless re-infected.

I will be returning to Allan's Colour Therapy Clinic in the coming months to do a final check that those nasty pathogens have gone, and spend a bit of time in the lovely area around Hamilton.

Dowsing Seminar for February 27th, 2011 - Beginners & Refresher -

With Col Zwan

In this seminar Col will show the practical side of dowsing, the how, why and when of dowsing, backed by demonstrations.

Col will be assisted by his wife Julie. They both have been dowsing for many years. Col started when he was 15. In 1944 in occupied Holland, his uncle Ben showed him how to find earth lines in the house, as his grandmother was suffering from a bad back.

They moved the grandmother's bed away from the line. A couple of days later a bomb fell where the bed had been. The grandmother survived and her back pain vanished. Col was suitably impressed, but he only saw it as a party trick at the time.

He started dowsing in earnest when he came to Australia. His first success was when he was in the Australian Fire Brigade; he had lost his hearing aid, and had to brush off his rods to find the expensive item. Later on, a telecom technician complained to him that with his $1000 equipment he could not find the broken telephone line in the garden. Col got his $1 rods out and found the line right away. One thing led to another and pretty soon, while in Patonga (NSW Central Coast) Col started to find water for neighbours. He was able to obtain accurate information about location, depth, flow rate and direction.

Over time, he developed in his mind a picture of how everything in the universe interconnects and how this really forms the basic corner stone of dowsing.

Col will cover a little on the history of dowsing, and spend time to explain and demonstrate how to achieve the dowsing response at a practical level.

This will be a hands-on seminar with plenty of practical work. Bring your pendulum if you have one, but there will be plenty of dowsing tools available for purchase, including some specially designed by Col. Also bring pen & paper and lunch. You can also find cafes close by on Gladesville Road.

The Seminar cost is $120 for members and $140 for non-members. Non-members will have the opportunity to join the Society on the day at a discounted price.

Memo from GOD....

Effective immediately, please be aware that there are changes YOU need to make in YOUR life. These changes need to be completed in order that I may fulfil my promises to you to grant you peace, joy and happiness in this life. I apologise for any inconvenience, but after all that I am doing, this seems very little to ask of you. I know, I already gave you the 10 Commandments. Keep them. But follow these guidelines, also.

1-QUIT WORRYING Life has dealt you a blow and all you do is sit and worry. Have you forgotten that I am here to take all your burdens and carry them for you? Or do you just enjoy fretting over every little thing that comes your way?

2-PUT IT ON THE LIST Something needs to be done or taken care of. Put it on the list. No, not YOUR list.

Put it on MY to-do-list. Let ME be the one to take care of the problem. I can't help you until you turn it over to Me. And although My to-do-list is long, I am after all... God. I can take care of anything you put into My hands. In fact, if the truth were ever really known, I take care of a lot of things for you that you never even realize.

3-TRUST ME

Once you've given your burdens to Me, quit trying to take them back.

Trust in Me. Have the faith that I will take care of all your needs, your problems and your trials. Problems with the kids? Put them on My list. Problem with finances? Put it on My list. Problems with your emotional rollercoaster? For your sake, put it on My list. I want to help you. All you have to do is ask.

4- LEAVE IT ALONE

Don't wake up one morning and say, “Well, I'm feeling much stronger now, I think I can handle it from here”; Why do you think you are feeling stronger now? It's simple. You gave Me your burdens and I'm taking care of them. I also renew your strength and cover you in my peace. Don't you know that if I give you these problems back, you will be right back where you started? Leave them with Me and forget about them. Just let Me do my job.

5- TALK TO ME

I want you to forget a lot of things. Forget what was making you crazy. Forget the worry and the fretting because you know I'm in control. But there's one thing I pray you never forget. Please, don't forget to talk to Me - OFTEN! I love YOU! I want to hear your voice. I want you to include Me in on the things going on in your life. I want to hear you talk about your friends and family. Prayer is simply you, having a conversation with Me. I want to be your dearest friend.

6- HAVE FAITH

I see a lot of things from up here that you can't see from where you are. Have faith in Me that I know what I'm doing. Trust Me, you wouldn't want the view from My eyes. I will continue to care for you, watch over you, and meet your needs. You only have to trust Me. Although I have a much bigger task than you, it seems as if you have so much trouble just doing your simple part. How hard can trust be?

7- SHARE

You were taught to share when you were only two years old. When did you forget? That rule still applies. Share with those who are less fortunate than you. Share your joy with those who need encouragement. Share your laughter with those who haven't heard any in such a long time. Share your tears with those who have forgotten how to cry. Share your faith with those who have none.

8- BE PATIENT

I managed to fix it so in just one lifetime you could have so many diverse experiences. You grow from a child to an adult, have children, change jobs many times, learn many trades, travel to so many places, meet thousands of people, and experience so much. How can you be so impatient then, when it takes Me a little longer than you expect to handle something on My to-do-list? Trust in My timing, for My timing is perfect. Just because I created the entire universe in only six days, everyone thinks I should always rush, rush, rush.

9- BE KIND

Be kind to others, for I love them just as much as I love you. They may not dress like you, or talk like you, or live the same way you do, but I still love you all. Please try to get along. I created each of you different in some way. It would be too boring if you were all identical. Please, know I love each of your differences.

10- LOVE YOURSELF

As much as I love you, how can you not love yourself? You were created by me for one reason only - to be loved, and to love in return. I am a God of Love. Love Me, love your neighbours. But also love yourself. It makes My heart ache when I see you so angry with yourself when things go wrong. You are very precious to me. Don't ever forget that!

With all My heart, I love YOU!

God

Seminar Review

- Pathway to Health -

with Guy Kramhoft, Sunday 24 October 2010

Review by Noel Jordan

Dr Tony Emmett, when talking to his wife about the seminar, described it as “a day all about love and forgiveness, presented as a seminar on green foods, leading to perfect health and wonderful relationships”.

Guy, one of our Vice-Presidents, has been doing research and dowsing for health for nearly 20 years. His original way of viewing the body's physical, emotional and spiritual systems, which are all inter-related, produced an exciting day of learning.

Guy's central tenet is that the mind controls everything and we can affect the mind by what we eat. Our physical body, which houses the mind, is at its optimum when the body's PH is neutral, ie. half way between alkaline and acid.

Unfortunately, our modern life style has us eating an acidic diet with consequent ill health, wrong decision-making and sacrifice of the passion in life. This is likely to show up in school and college, the work place, in the home and in our relationships.

Guy dowses a person's health using a chart of his own design which he shared with us. His diagnosis method is easy to learn and can be used for oneself. Using his extensive experience based on thousands of diagnoses, he dowses the chart and then advises on nutrition, supplements etc. based on the results.

Using some charts from his collection of some 4000 cases, Guy illustrated his analysis in telling detail and answered questions from the lively participants.

Guy shared so many simple health recipes with us, I have pages of notes additionally to the extensive manual he provided us with. What really struck me was the depth of his understanding and the simple common sense solutions he had to offer.

To give you an example, he taught us that you can kill a starting cough 'dead on' by drinking a simple tea made with a spoonful of fenugreek seeds, and a sore throat by gargling warm water with cayenne powder. I tried it on my return from an overseas trip and it worked. When I get a cold it normally start in my throat, then my nose runs, then after a few days the cough starts. Not this time! Thanks to Guy, I was clear of both the next day.

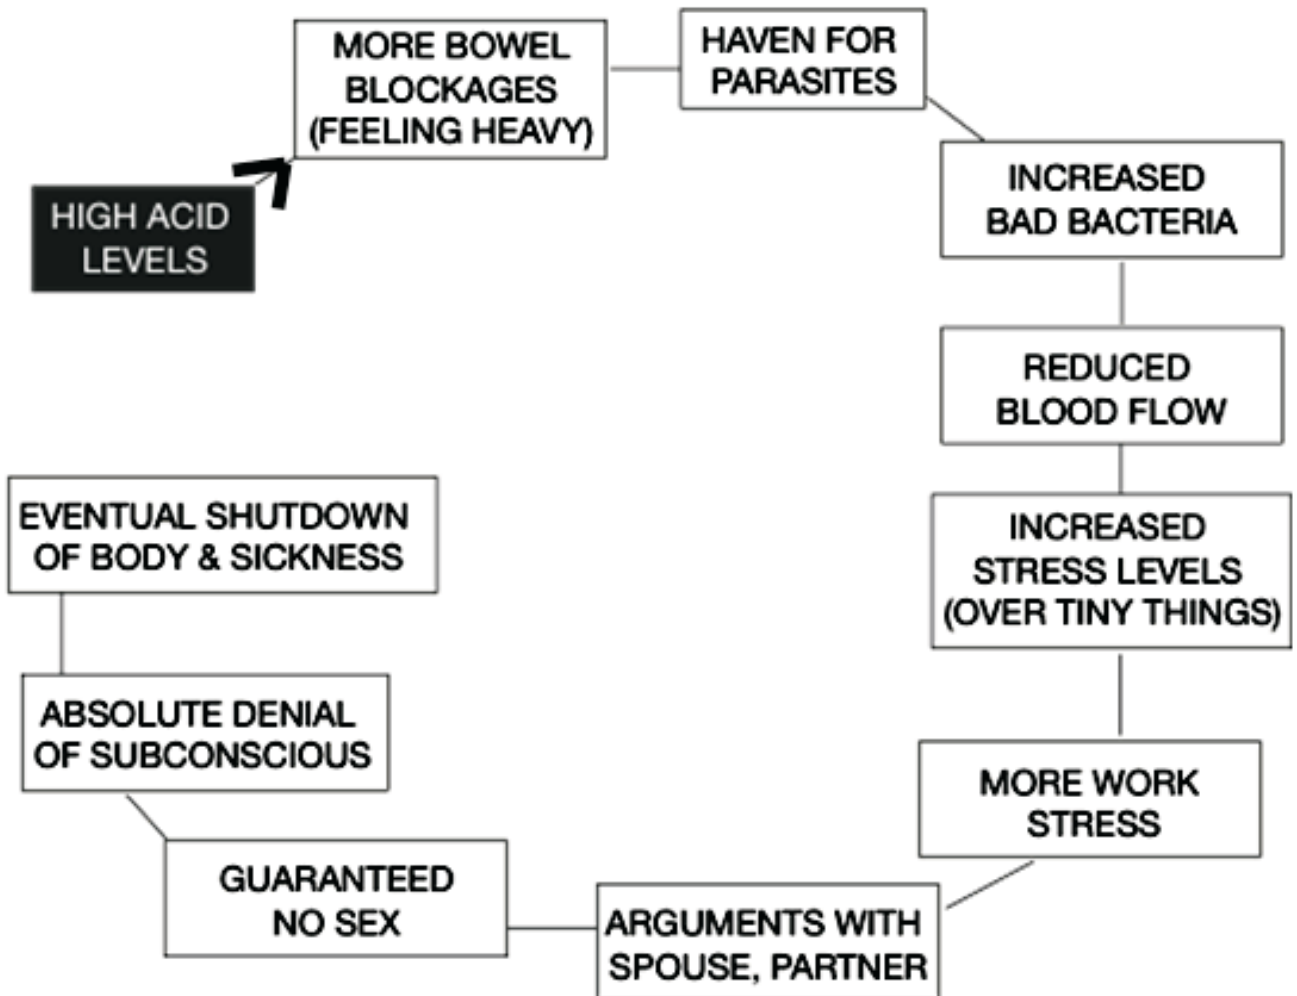

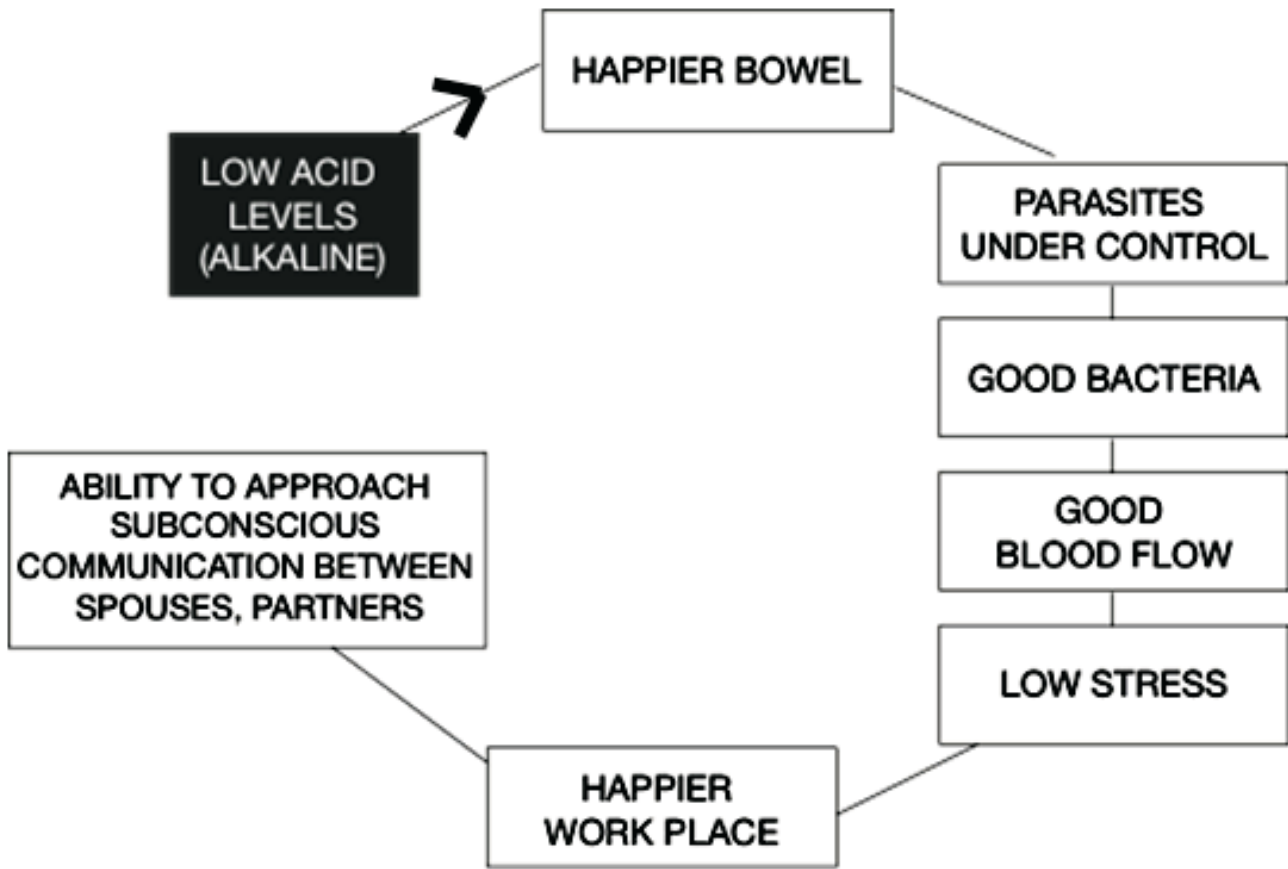

With 31 participants this was our best attended seminar ever in my memory and members were reluctant to go home afterwards.

The good news is that this is a basic seminar. The comprehensive manual covered all the essential points in great detail and there is a DVD available of the whole day running for over 5 hours at a cost of $25 through the sales desk. One of Guy's many diagrams appears on page 25.

Having introduced the basic concepts, including the crucial dowsing chart, Guy has more advanced seminars planned, which will include a refresher section for those wanting to catch up. The first of these is on 30 October 2011 at the Hunters Hill Community Centre. Details will be posted in the newsletter and on the website.

In the meantime, Guy is giving a talk at our March meeting and presenting a DVD on his success with diabetes. This is not to be missed.

The Force

- Lyn McLean -

We are all surrounded by artificial electromagnetic energies in our homes, at our workplaces and even in our hospitals and schools.

Globally there are millions of kilometres of power lines, millions of phone towers, satellites, TV and radio transmitters - all emitting electromagnetic radiation, all bathing the planet in a sea of artificial energy.

With over five billion mobile phones in use, the penetration of this technology - literally and figuratively - is an issue that concerns us all.

What are the effects of this energy?

How can you protect your home and your family?

What are the implications of this technology for us at a personal and societal level?

Author, educator and director of EMR Australia, Lyn will share her experiences, her insights and techniques for living more safely in a world of electromagnetic pollution.

Lyn's website is www.emraustralia.com.au
