- Exploring the Ley Lines of Europe -

A magical journey through Britain, France and Italy along the 'Michael & Mary' and the 'Apollo & Athena' Ley Lines.

This interactive presentation includes many photos of ancient sites, maps, commentaries and photos of the actual ley lines. François was helped by Hamish Miller, (who first documented these lines with Paul Broadhurst) by providing a set of detailed maps compiled while he explored the ley lines for the book 'The Sun and the Serpent'.

Using the maps allowed precise and detailed exploration of several difficult to locate sites, particularly in Cornwall (England) and Normandy (France).

François has spent many years exploring various sites along the lines, and has seen the evolution of the energy quality. This is particularly important now, as new energy is being fed into the lines to help mankind evolve to the next level. This is not without obstacles as you will discover.

The presentation will be accompanied by music especially composed for the occasion. We will be using a large projection screen and top quality stereo sound, to allow you to experience the richness of this visual journey.

From the Editor

We are now in 2015 and a question begs asking: “What happened to the dream?” You remember years ago, when 2000 was still in the distant future, we would ponder what a marvellous lifestyle technology was going to bring us? Instead, you see bus loads of teenagers entirely absorbed by their mobile phones, and mesmerised by their friend’s trivia.

Is that living? I think not, but will they wake up without a major shock?

I remember as a child, we had to entertain ourselves, we made tunnels out of the couch cushions, we pretended to make houses with cardboard, and we let our imaginations run wild.

Today not much is left to the imagination, thanks to our image processing technology. Will we find a balance between the two?

Based on the current status, it seems that we are headed for disaster, but experts are saying that the energies around us are changing:

“We will enter a new phase of growth in human awareness in 2015 as a portal for accelerated spiritual growth opens in the celestial spheres.

You will reach a cross-roads between a spiritual or a materially-oriented direction in 2015. If you focus on spiritual activities, introspection, self-awareness, healing, meditation, and prayer, you will feel peace and calm as your energy pulls into your body and consolidates in your spine. Then you will have a chance to consciously channel your energy either “upward” toward Spirit, or “downward” toward materiality, according to your conscious choice in every moment.”

I think that the keyword here is conscious choice. To be conscious one has to practise every day. It is not an easy task, but when the time comes, it will make the difference.

Until next time,

François

The Case of the Grieving Axe

You never know what you'll find - so always keep an open mind!

By Jane Ruehmkorff

On a recent trip to Santa Fe in New Mexico, I was staying with a friend who was having trouble sleeping in her room, and had consequently moved to another room hoping to get a better night's sleep. As I always travel with a dowsing rod, I offered to check the earth radiation and she was delighted as she understood what I meant. She is a dowser and had also done a building biology course. I told her I would use the Celtic Stone method shown me by my husband Peter and used for many years. There was a dry riverbed nearby, so I collected 4 suitable tumbled stones, checking that the stones agreed to being used for holding back the earth radiation on a local property.

We started early one morning, my friend with her 'L' rods and I had my 'V' rod, and we both found the same strong negative lines criss-crossing her home. However when we went outside, close to the window of her former room, she came up against some really strong negative energy that caused her to stagger back, feeling quite shaken. We stopped and looked around the area, and saw it was where her husband splits the firewood, with a chopping block and axe leaning against it.

Pulling out my pendulum, I started asking questions: Is it an Entity? "No"; Is it the chopping block? "No"; Is it the axe? "Yes!" We moved the double edged axe to the boundary of the property and both started tuning in to it. We intuited that the axe was very sad, brim full of First Nation peoples' grief.

Realising we needed to apologise for the grief trapped in the axe, my friend went inside to find some support, and came out with 2 eagle feathers and a leather pouch given to her by a local First Nation Elder, as well as a small statue of Mother Mary and a picture of Jesus for good measure. These were carefully placed around the axe and my friend proceeded to chant a prayerful invocation over and over. I had to hold her to support and stop her from falling over, as emotion enveloped her and her pendulum slowly changed direction and started swinging positively.

She had managed to transform the grief and the axe was happy to be returned to its place by the chopping block – on two conditions I discovered, 1) that the axe be given a name and, 2) that it is always to be treated with respect.. Whew! That was a big lesson in taking nothing for granted!

The rest of the job was quickly done, the four local river stones being programmed with the house-holders' intent for their home, and each hammered 3 times to lock in the position (where the worst energy lines intersected); then the stones were placed in the four corners of their property - after each stone indicated where it wanted to be put - to hold back the negative lines, so that positive energy lines could pop up in their place throughout the house and garden.

My friend immediately noticed that the place felt much lighter, and I am very hopeful that she is sleeping better too and perhaps even back in her gorgeous sun-room. What this exercise has done for her, I am happy to report, is remind her that she has an open channel to do the work, which is a beautiful gift that she can use to help others.

And for me, it was a realisation that our dowsing tools can lead us into the most exciting and interesting situations, and that an open mind is all important...

The Celtic Method Principle

This is a reprint of an old article, but I think it is relevant today

By Peter Ruehmkorff, as told by François Capmeil

Peter is no longer with us. As a tribute to this wonderful dowser and friend, I want to share a method of clearing the geopathic stress from houses which he taught a few of us in May 2003. Around that time, I was not feeling well and I thought that the cause could be geopathic stress emanating from the ground under my house. I asked Peter if he could help me to find out, and he kindly said 'Yes'. He came one morning all the way from the Blue Mountains to check the house.

My guess was right: Peter found a black stream under the house and was able to correct the effects. I watched with interest how he did it, which was actually quite simple. I mentioned to him that a lot of dowsers would benefit from learning this technique. So Peter offered to do a practical seminar for a few people to learn the method.

Before explaining the method, I will mention the background and tell how Peter taught us.

In the course of his life in Northern Europe, he realised that few of the old houses built in a part of Germany had geopathic stress in them. One day looking at an old stone mason repairing a damaged wall, he noticed that before cementing each stone in place, the old mason would knock on the stone 3 times with his trowel. When asked why, the mason said "to protect the house".

Apparently this was an old tradition passed on from the time when the Celts lived in what is now Germany. Peter experimented with the idea and came up with the method I will describe shortly.

Peter organised to take the four of us who registered for the seminar to 4 separate houses suffering from geopathic stress. I can only guess that the owners had requested him to do the clearing, and that he very kindly used that opportunity for training us.

We met at the first house, where he demonstrated the technique. Peter used a set of dowsing rods which responded to the minutest change of energy. He was very sensitive and accurate with his rods. After he showed us how to dowse for the noxious lines, Peter checked that we could clearly detect them as well.

He had brought with him several sets of four river-bed stones, made of crystalline rock, not sandstone as is commonly found in the Sydney area.

He explained that these stones had probably been rolled down the river, then dug up with a mechanical excavator all of which would have knocked the stones enough for them to retain a signature of the local energies. When a crystalline rock is knocked hard enough, it records a picture of the energetic configuration of the location where it is knocked.

To be able to use the stones for our purpose, the previous energetic signatures must be erased. Peter proceeded to show us how to clear the stones. First he checked the polarity of each stone with his pendulum, then he would take each stone one by one, holding the stone to his throat chakra, focusing on his breath, then moving them down quickly along the front of his body all the way to the lower chakra, while making a loud grunting noise while releasing air from his lungs. This is quite hard to describe in words, but simple to do. He then rechecked the polarity of the stone, and cleared them again if needed.

The next step was to locate the detrimental energy line pattern over the house or property. Peter used a dowsing rod, but most of us used L-rods. We would walk across the front of the property and one of the sides, and draw the lines on paper. Once the pattern was identified, Peter looked for the crossing of these lines where the energy would be the most detrimental to humans. If more than one was found, he would select the one located in one of the bedrooms where people would be likely to suffer the longest exposure.

We would then bring a set of four stones to that location for Peter, being very careful not to knock them. He would then lay them out at his feet, in the same formation and orientation as the shape of the house or plot. One stone representing each corner. The stones would be about 8 cm apart. He would then put his foot on one of the stones and ask which corner of the house/plot that stone would like to occupy, starting with its current location, until he found the correct location for each of the stones.

Remember that when hit, a crystalline stone would store the energetic signature of a location. So Peter would take a big hammer out of his bag, don protective glasses, and hit each stone 3 times while holding the stone over the bad spot. He would then place each one back into its position in front of him. Once the stone has been hit, it can be rotated on its vertical axis, but not turned upside down, or it would not work at all.

We then carefully took each stone to its respective corner of the property. If there is room, the stone can be buried, if not, it can rest on the ground, making sure it does not get knocked or displaced.

Peter explained the concept as he understood it: If that detrimental line was 10 cm wide, for example, and the intensity 100 exposure units per centimetre. Now that the stones were linked to the line, by moving the stones to cover a wider area, (for example 1000 times wider than the line was), then the intensity would be thinned out to $10/1000 = 0.01$ unit per centimetre.

In the image on the next page, you can see the original black stream. Once the stones are energised and located, the black stream is stretched like a sheet of rubber. In doing so, the same amount of bad energy has to cover a much wider area, making it everywhere much weaker, and no longer able to pose any danger to humans.

Once the detrimental line loses its intensity, a positive line, if present, will often take over the space now filled with weak detrimental energy. In other words, the detrimental line, having now lost its strength, would be overpowered by the beneficial line. We did witness this effect in two of the four houses we did together.

Peter explained that if you sleep at a crossing of two of these detrimental lines, the organ exposed to the detrimental energy would become diseased. In the last house we visited this was confirmed in a dramatic way. Peter knew the owners, but did not tell us anything about them. So we found 2 lines which crossed a little below the left pillow, on the master bedroom bed. We did the correction and did not think more of it.

On the way back, in the car, Peter told us that the lady of the house had throat cancer. Her throat would have been exactly over the spot we discovered. I later forgot the incident and never asked Peter if that lady got cured, but I am sure that she would respond much better to medical treatment after the correction.

François

The Celtic Method Procedure

- Get a map or drawing of the house and land
- Get 4 river-bed crystalline stones.
- Request the owner to not tell you their problems, but tell them what you are going to do.

- 1- Create around you a protection-imagining white tube spinning clockwise inside and anti-clockwise outside.
- 2- Say prayer for accurate reading, for example:

“Please guide my hands and prepare my mind; help me form my questions with clarity and enhance my sensitivity to the answers. Encourage my detachment from ego and anticipated results. Bless my purpose and intent to douse for the highest and greatest good of all concerned.

Thank you.”

- 3- Synchronise your mind clock with now.
- 4- Program your mind for harmful radiations detection.
- 5- Check for geopathic stress lines.
- 6- Find worst crossing of negative energies.
- 7- Check if stones have existing polarity.
- 8- Clear stones by grunting them past your front chakras.
- 9- Wearing protective glasses, hit each stone 3 times at the location of the crossing found above.
- 10- Keep stones in same vertical orientation.
- 11- Ask for which corner of the property each stone has to go.
- 12- Position them on the floor according to respective corner.
- 13- With house owner, taking one stone at a time, go to each corner and bury stone at that corner.
- 14- The spot that has been hit must face upward.

- 15- Explain not to move the stone, or it will not work anymore.
- 16- Check new location of earth energies.
- 17- Check sleeping place.
- 18- Ask if any entities, if so, release them.
- 19- Check for EMF radiations.
- 20- Ask if there is any more to do, ask if job is complete.
- 21- Check occupants' chakras to stop compensating for negative energy.
- 22- If needed, show a polarity balancing exercise, to do once a day for two weeks by all occupants to limit the effect of body compensation. The body may still want to compensate for a stress situation that no longer exists.
- 23- Explain to the occupant(s) that there have been significant changes, and that it is possible that sleep will be different for a few nights.
- 24- Cats and dogs might be disturbed in their habitats as well, as they can sense these changes.
- 25- Say thank you prayer.

Dowsing for Drought & Bush Fires

By Heather Wilks

The rainfall for the period 1 July 2014 to 23 December 2014 shows serious to severe deficiencies (lowest 10% to 5% of records) are in place across the central and southern Cape York Peninsula in Queensland, parts of the Top End in the Northern Territory, scattered areas between central Australia and northern Queensland, and also on the Pilbara coast in Western Australia.

Serious to severe deficiencies are also in place across most of the agricultural districts of South Australia, western Victoria and southern New South Wales, extending along the western margin of the Great Dividing Range in New South Wales and south eastern Queensland.

Thought I'd send through a suggestion for dowsing for you to tweak in your own way. I've adapted the Weather Protocol from my new book, "Dowsing Heals".

The more each of us dowses, and the more regularly, the more likely we'll be able to help areas that seriously need it. I decided to list each state and the NT specifically. Saying 'Australia' feels too broad (as 'World' does for many issues), but please go with what resonates with you.

Suggested Dowsing Protocol for Droughts and Bushfires

Start swinging pendulum in NO direction and then let it pick up its own momentum.

Dowsing Heals

- How to dowse to bring healing to yourself, others and animals.
- Discover how to transform relationships, situations, even the weather.

Scrambling the frequency of the drought and bushfires in Victoria, NSW, ACT/Canberra, Queensland, South Australia, Northern Territory, Western Australia and Tasmania. Neutralising all the negative energy, non-beneficial thought forms and the media-fed hysteria relating to the extreme conditions, everything known or unknown that is contributing to the droughts and bushfires across the country, raising fear levels, contributing to devastation and encouraging arsonist activity. Magnifying this dowsing with the help of spiritual dowsers and the skills of the best dowsers on the planet.

Wait until pendulum stops spinning. Then start swinging pendulum in YES direction and then let it pick up its own momentum.

Transforming the energy to bring increased balance, harmony and peace for calmer, beneficial conditions for the people, animals, properties and land affected by drought and prone to bushfires - in Victoria, NSW, Queensland, South Australia, Western Australia, Northern Territory and Tasmania. Bringing in the most appropriate temperatures, low humidity, gentle breezes and normal rainfall in safe, beneficial amounts. Bringing in the spirits of love and gratitude, respect and freedom, for the highest good of all. This or something better as safe and appropriate from now and into the future across all time, dimensions, space and reality. Thank you.

Wait until pendulum stops spinning.

When the rain does fall, please spin your pendulum in the Yes direction
“Bringing in the spirit of love, gratitude, respect and freedom to the rain.”

Raymon Grace December 2014 message

By Raymon Grace

Howdy Folks,

I would like to share a bit of information with you to help you better survive the holiday season.

For about 18 months I've noticed something new affecting a lot of people. When the audience is asked, "How many of you have noticed that people are getting crazier?" Most of the hands go up and people laugh.

Am glad they laugh but it really isn't funny, it's serious. I started taking readings on the 'mental stability' of people, then expanded it to towns, counties and cities, and found that our fellow citizens have a problem. What is worse, is that you folks reading this may also have the same problem.

I was measuring this situation for several months before finding the reason for it. One day a friend called to tell me about some information she had read concerning the passing of earth through space and there was an 'energy' coming from the Milky Way affecting the minds of people. My dowsing previously indicated this condition could be called 'astrological influence' without realizing the source, and it seems I was right.

Now you don't have to know everything in order to solve a problem. You don't need to understand electricity in order to turn the lights on, so don't over-think this.

All you have to do is measure the effect of 'astrological influence' on a person or group. If you get a negative reading, then it obviously needs to be corrected.

Next, take your pendulum and set the intent to neutralize the negative effect of 'astrological influence' upon the person or group. The pendulum will swing counter-clockwise.

Really can't say how long this will last, it may be different for each person. You will just have to check it from time to time to find out.

My newsletters are written for folks who know something about dowsing, so if you are a beginner, you can visit my websites to get some information.

Life is easier dealing with sane people rather than crazy people. By using this simple technique, you can stack the deck in your favour for a Happy Holiday Season.

Faye and I will be offering the webinar again on January 23 - 26. It will be available for 60 hours, giving you plenty of time to watch it 2 or 3 times if you like and re-watching any segment you like.

This could make a really nice Christmas gift for a family and if they use it, could be the best gift you ever gave them.

Here is an email received this week, am very thankful for it.

This is D_____. I owe you more than you'll ever know! Not only am I whole for the first time in my life but I'm also the healthiest and happiest than I have ever been. You and your classes are amazing! I now realize that I'm amazing too. I realize the power I have. I've been helping others in so many ways! I learned I can have my cells regenerate at the highest appropriate level and my collagen produce at the highest appropriate level, I don't have to use wrinkle cream anymore. Lol! I've learned so much and will keep learning. All because of you. My deepest gratitude to you. I will forever hold you in my heart as the person who made me whole. I can't thank you enough! Life is good!

Its responses like this that keep me doing this work.

Wishing you a safe, sane and happy holiday season!!!!

The West-East Coil

By Heather Willings, France.

Reprinted from the British Society of Dowzers, December 1991

The west-east coil, is made of several turns of wires, with a short end (the earth) and a long end (the antenna) protruding out of opposite sides of the coil. The coil is wound anti-clockwise.

The coil can be made of bare copper wire. Insulated wire is also fine, but then you need to strip the earth and the antenna clear of insulation.

This coil will regenerate water and extend the life of food. It will also improve the health of ailing pot plants. I can confirm its effectiveness as a headache remedy. After sweeping out the cellar I found myself with an intense sinus headache. I put a W/ E coil on my head and sat down facing west. Twelve minutes later the pain had quite disappeared. This treatment is also useful for mental fatigue and can be used preventively when sitting down to some difficult brainwork.

The W/E coil will counteract adverse radiation indoors (if placed at a distance from anything metal). It will also protect someone from being drained at night by negative influences (including a sleeping companion), if placed under the bed. It should be positioned level with the solar plexus, antenna to the west.

One of my 'patients' had been discharged from hospital in fairly good shape, but started deteriorating after a few nights beside his depressive wife. After I placed a coil under his side of the bed he was noticeably better. (The doctor attributed this to a change in medication, but the improvement was evident before he even called ...). After a week or so I removed the coil. Next morning the patient complained of aches and fatigue. When the coil was put back these problems disappeared.

In the morning the coil will dowse negative. It will recover on its own but, if needed for another use, it should be cleansed in cold running water. Recovery times vary according to where the coil is placed:

- in direct sunlight: a few seconds
- in direct daylight: about 15 minutes
- indoors, beside a window: about 4 hours
- indoors, under a bed: about 11 hours.

(The effect of glass on the power of daylight is interesting. I find my dowsing reactions are slower if I'm wearing glasses. Can anyone explain this phenomenon?)

The coil will also recover if handled for a minute or two, but I suspect that if the handler is in a negative state the effect will not be the same.

If the bed is an old one with a heavy metal frame and uninsulated springs, a harmful charge will build up there which will nullify the coil's action. To counteract this, use Frank Moody's wrap-around coil:

A length of wire, both ends bared if it is insulated, wrapped with several turns around any part of the frame and the ends twisted together. In fact, this treatment on its own may be all that is needed to correct a troubled sleep pattern.

Myalgic Encephalomyelitis

By Alf Riggs

British Society of Dowzers, March 1995

(Wikipedia : Chronic fatigue syndrome (CFS) is the common name for a group of significantly debilitating medical conditions characterized by persistent fatigue and other specific symptoms. CFS may also be referred to as myalgic encephalomyelitis (ME), post-viral fatigue syndrome (PVFS), chronic fatigue immune dysfunction syndrome (CFIDS). Biological, genetic, infectious and psychological mechanisms have been proposed, but the etiology of CFS is not understood and it may have multiple causes)

As a result of investigating houses and work places with a blind test approach in nine different countries, I have come to the conclusion that energy depleted states, loosely classified as being Myalgic Encephalomyelitis, [ME] fall in the main, into two classes - ME caused as a result of being exposed to specific types of earth radiation, and an energy-depleted state resulting from post viral fatigue.

ME Caused by Earth Radiation

The molecules of moving underground water interacting with the molecular structure of the strata it is flowing through, produces a positive vertical electric field, a D/C generated negative magnetic field and radio frequencies ranging from 87 -101, which are organised into narrow bands about 6-8cm wide.

These bands are formed on the outside edges of a subterranean stream known as outside edge lines, with other lines forming across the width of the stream producing a higher output of radio frequencies recorded on my charts as high energy output lines.

If a person is sleeping and/or working above these narrow bands for a lengthy period of time, it has been my experience to find that they are suffering from what is said to be ME. If they are also immersed in A/C pulsed magnetic fields above 70 nano Tesla, this serves to speed up the development of an energy depleted state by a considerable margin.

The position of the band of radiation on the body, particularly when related to the sleeping site and the type of earth radiation they are in combination with, will in some fair measure, determine the range of symptoms associated with ME that the individual is suffering from.

Some fields that invade the body, which are specific in their make up, have the effect of adding or removing an electron from parts of the bio-electric system. When such an event takes place, it results in a change of polarity in that part of the system thus affected. It is my contention that when the radiation generated by the movement of underground water invades the cell, it is instrumental in changing the polarity of specific messages sent along the mitochondrial electron chain, resulting in a deficiency of adenosine triphosphate - the main energy releasing agent in the cell.

Since, from the study of biophysics, we are beginning to understand that the contents of the biological framework is motivated by highly specific electro magnetic frequencies at cell level, it is becoming apparent to me that in many diseases the problem to be addressed as a matter of priority is, the state of the electric fields at cell level.

After placing the bed into a neutral zone, away from harmful earth rays and man made radiation, individuals suffering from ME often enjoy an improved quality of life without necessarily achieving a full recovery. In order to promote an improvement to this development, one has to correct the imbalance in the value of the electric fields within the mitochondria, and this is best achieved in my experience, by employing the talents of a competent and compatible healer.

Attempting to rectify an altered state in the structure of an electric field by employing the skills of a healer, or by any other method, whilst the patient continues to be immersed in these noxious fields, is on a par with trying to treat someone who has a burnt hand whilst their hand is still in the fire.

It becomes essential to place the patient to sleep, and work in zones where the A/C and D/C electromagnetic background is more compatible with the requirements of the bio-electric system, before any attempt of healing can usefully take place.

Being a healer myself, I found it served no useful purpose to give someone a few minutes healing a week, if they were going home to sleep in a disturbed zone that was instrumental in causing biological damage for the next fifty hours or so - thus it became essential to investigate the areas where the subject worked and slept.

In the Hands On Science Museum in Adelaide last August, I was able to demonstrate that there is a degree of bio-electric individuality when measuring emissions from the hands of a group of men and women. Some healers have a good record in dealing with a limited number of specific diseases, but fail to improve the quality of life for people with diseases outside their ability to deal with.

It is my contention that where radiation is the cause of disease, the invading fields are very often frequency specific, and multi-factorial in their content. In the same way repair to the dysfunction of electrical fields at cell level would, from necessity, have to be equally precise when employing electro magnetic field therapy.

In research (not related to the study of ME), scientists used a 13000 gauss magnet in an effort to promote enzyme production. Although they succeeded in achieving this, the technique failed to induce the production of an enzyme that was deficient.

When the services of healers were used in a number of tests, it was found that those using their hands as an instrument, were able to correct the deficiency without increasing other enzymes - one of the compounds successfully dealt with in this way was ATP (Adenosine Triphosphate).

It has been my experience to find that individuals adversely affected by the types of radiation mentioned above, tend to wake up with a serious energy depleted state, no matter how long they have slept or rested. When this condition is caused solely as a result of viral infection such as the Epstein Barr virus, the sufferers usually wake up having had the energy depletion repaired to a useful degree during the course of the night, only to find that it ebbs away during the day.

There are, of course, some individuals on the receiving end of both Post Viral Fatigue and Earth Radiation and in these cases, the energy depleted state is more profound.

I am prepared to work with any University on a blind test basis in order to prove my finding that the radiation generated by the movement of underground water, when in combination with A/C pulsed magnetic fields above the value of 70 nano Tesla, is a major contributory factor in the development of ME.

The spoon bending party was a real success. I did not bring my wife this time because last time we had this presentation, she bent another 2 spoons without meaning to, when she made some tea back home. The spoons just flopped down on their own. So it's real folks!

This spoon is made of very hard stainless steel, yet it was bent as if the metal was soft. I cannot remember who bent it though. Robb brought quite a selection of spoons for us to bend.

Robb lead us into a calm and conducive state, after about 20 minutes we started to hear people's exclamations "It works". Some children were present and they were the first to register the effect, bending several spoons during the afternoon.

I think that pretty much everyone had a bending story to tell afterwards. This is a very empowering exercise .

A very happy bunch of dowsers showing their bent spoons.

- Contemporary Crystal Skull, a Phenomenon -

There is a lot of mystery surrounding crystal skulls, their origin and purpose. Popular culture often portrays them as symbols of death and doom and some people find them creepy.

Yet to Mexican and other world cultures, the form of the human skull is decorated and utilized to honour deceased family members and friends.

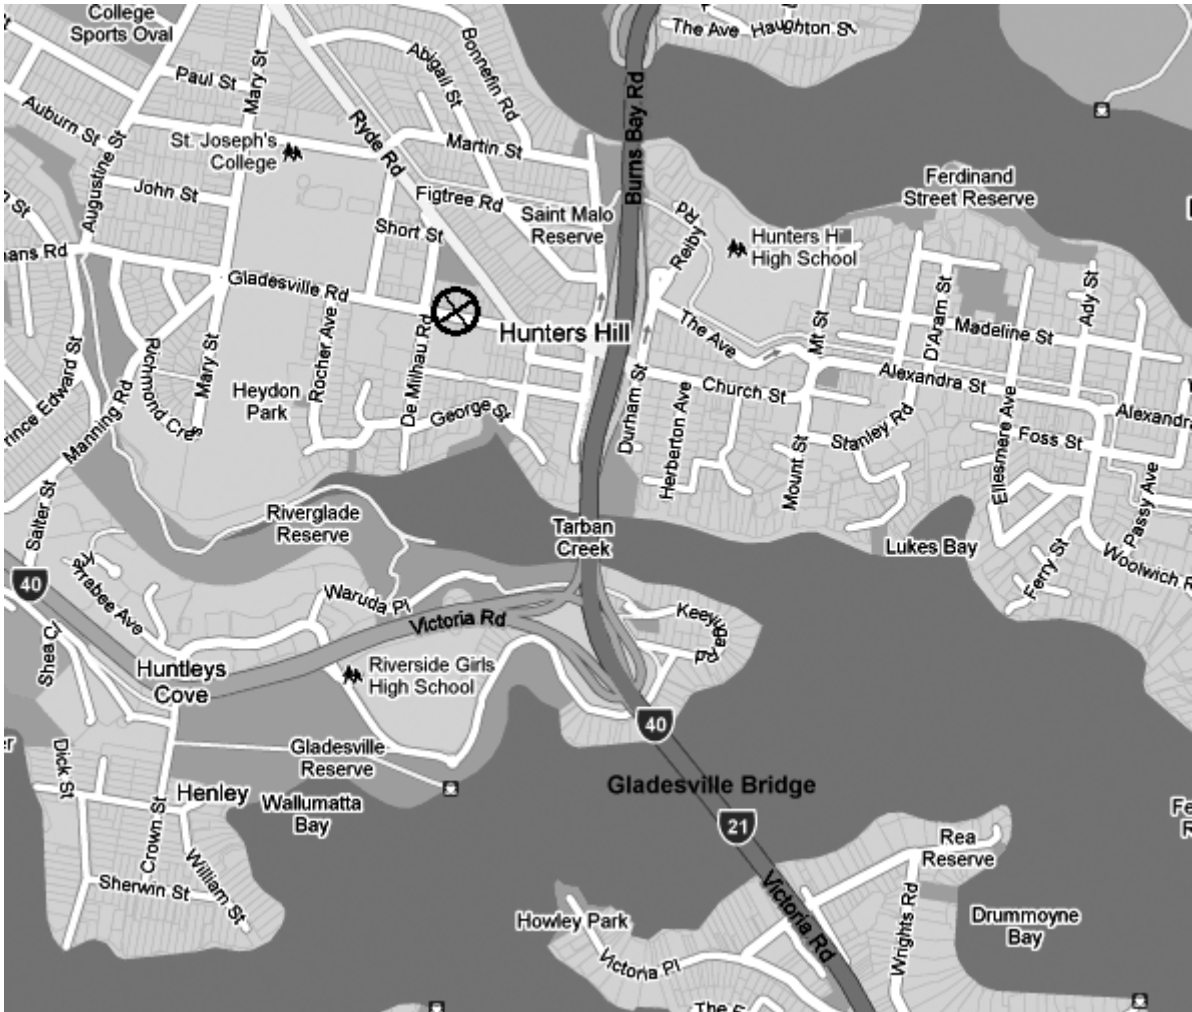

The Day of the Dead holiday celebrates and brings an acceptance of death not often seen in Western culture.

There is a surge of interest in popular culture, art and new age spheres about them. Do crystal skulls represent destruction or hope and healing?

We will explore the phenomenon of Crystal Skull Consciousness, drawing from my experience with contemporary crystal skulls, describing activated or embodied crystal skulls, and grid work for personal and planetary healing.

I will bring a number of crystal skulls and offer a guided meditation with them. They will also be available for purchase. If you are a custodian of a crystal skull, feel welcome to bring yours along.
