

Dowsers Society of NSW Inc.

Newsletter

June 2010

Vol 22 Issue 6

Table of Contents

- 2 Speaker for June 20th 2010 - Micheal English
- 3 From the Secretary
- 5 Empowering Yourself
- 7 Healing with Magnets
- 13 It's Time to Trust Your Intuition
- 16 Finger Dowsing
- 18 If Only I Could Have Dowsed
- 19 Quote of the Day
- 20 A Memorable ASD Convention
- 22 Library News
- 23 Speaker for July 18th, 2010 - Gaynor Foster

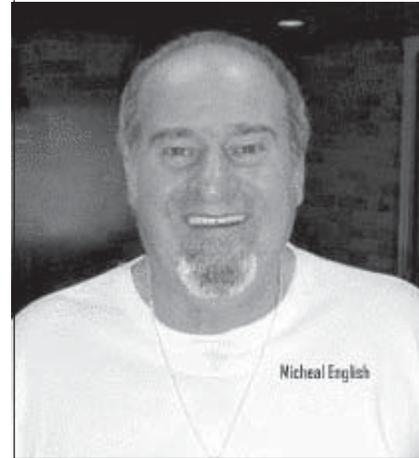

Views expressed in articles are the opinion of the individual writer only, not necessarily the collective view of the Society.

Speaker for June 20th, 2010

Micheal English - Trance Channelling

Micheal has over 17 years experience as a trance channel and medium, serving and helped by John of Light. Providing access to information in Records of Light and Akashic Records regarding past, future and near present events, including earth changes, past and future lives, healing and much more.

He is offering himself as an independent spiritual teacher and channel for healing, as a clear channel for communications from and between various entities of love, light and us.

Micheal is often unaware of the information being channelled through his body until after he has watched and listened to the recordings of the entities. He is able to see, sense and interact with many forms of extra-terrestrials and other spirits, some helpful, some not.

The light within you needs a moment to recognise its sacredness

The love within you fuels this light

Are you ready to look, listen and see?

www.lightwithlight.com

From the Secretary

Noel, our President, is currently overseas and has not been able to send us his thoughts for this month, so I will share mine with you instead.

More and more I am aware that dowsing can play an important part in people's personal growth and awareness. Awareness is not often looked at as a gift, but it is a gift we are given. It comes with every breath, but in general we accept very few of them consciously. Inevitably, one day, the gifts will stop coming and we know what happens after that!

Our senses are the tools of our awareness, but all around us are invisible realms that are normally beyond the reach of our 5 physical senses. This is where dowsing comes in. Practising dowsing enhances your 6th sense. You will find an article in this newsletter about our 6th sense called 'It's Time to Trust Your Intuition'.

Dr Ibrahim Karim, founder of BioGeometry, always starts his training by saying "If you can see the invisible, you can do the impossible". How can you see the invisible? You may not see it directly with your eyes, unless you are psychic, but:

- You can see it with your Mental Dowsing by asking a question and getting an answer. The more focused you are, the more likely the answer will be accurate.
- You can see it with Scientific Dowsing, simply by tuning into your own frequency (adjusting the length of your pendulum string to your field, as described in the 'Healing with Magnets' article on page 7 of this newsletter) and then finding objects, food, drinks, people, locations etc, which resonate beneficially with your own field (pendulum spins same as for your field).

You can dowse the results easily, for example, you can bless one glass of water and not the other, then dowse which one was blessed and how long the blessing will last. That blessing will make the drink more beneficial for you and enhance your awareness and energy field.

Living consciously also means that you are more inclined to call on the beneficial energies present around you, like beneficial forces of nature and angels, for help. You can bless your food, your drinks, your projects etc, you can call on angelic or divine help.

I remember the late Michael Poynder who used to call this unseen help, “Top Management”. He would ask “them” for all the things he needed, and invariably everything would work out magically for him. I remember him asking me to park near his hotel in the city, where there is never any parking. He said just “park here” and just then a parked car left the curb and drove away, leaving us a fresh parking spot.

He inspired me to do the same, with wonderful results. Some days my life is totally magical, and I have to look up and say almost aloud ‘Thanks Guys’. Some days are not so magical, but the trust in the process is there in me and I know that whatever happens is for the greater good. So much positivity flows into your life when you live like that, and as it does, your energy field, your health and your clarity strengthen.

With clarity comes a richer life, which leads to more awareness and gratitude for Life. There is a quote in this newsletter talking about gratitude, you may ponder on it for a while.

So if you are shy about using dowsing in your life, take a step forward. The first step is to carry a pendulum with you at all times. It can be a pendant kept around the neck, or a key ring, it does not really matter. If you want to use your arm, you can too, just let it hang very relaxed and there you have a very nice pendulum, which every one can see, but no one can detect.

I always carry a small pouch in my pocket, with a pendulum in it, and believe me it gets used from the morning, to find out how many vitamin C tablets to take, to the evening to bless my last glass of water.

You can easily do this too, starting today!

Best wishes

François

Empowering Yourself

As a person learning to douse, you may experience doubts and difficulties developing your dowsing ability. The following are some words of advice, (author unknown) which would benefit anyone, but are particularly relevant as a dowser.

Use empowering words when you talk to yourself, (whether you are speaking out loud or silently). How do you talk to yourself?

Do you use the words “can’t”, “won’t”, “don’t need to”, “why try”? Many people do.

Do you find that what you say to yourself turns out to be true?

Why is this?

You see, your brain is like a computer that you feed each day. It doesn’t always know what’s real or not unless you tell it.

Example: If someone you love has hurt you, you may tell yourself that all people who love you will probably hurt you too.

Your brain just files this information for reference, it’s data, little zeroes and ones and no column that asks ‘true or not true?’ Now your brain thinks, based on what you told it, that everyone you’ll ever love will hurt you.

How do you think you will respond the next time you get hurt?

Right!!

Now, what if we instead told our brain:

“Okay this person ripped my heart out - but that’s only one person. I’m lovable and have many loving people in my life who are not out to hurt me. I know that the right people are coming into my life all the time. If someone hurts me, I will forgive them and bless them on their way.”

Words can be empowering.

I can
I love to
I want to
I will
I must
I am

We can reach a new level of living, if we feed ourselves empowering words and practise saying them until they become a habit.

I know first hand that it takes time.

And I also know that it's worth it.

Try it for a week.

Catch yourself saying "I can't", when you don't really mean it and instead try, "I can", and see how you think and feel about yourself.

Remember, the words you use to empower yourself will have a lasting effect, only if you practice them and they become a habit (an acquired behavior pattern regularly followed until it has become almost involuntary).

They say it takes at least 28 days to develop a habit. After a week, you will see that it becomes easier. It's a mindset and you can control your thoughts. Be proactive and not reactive - give yourself some good words.

Dream big and empower yourself! Believe you can and you will.

Healing with Magnets

This article is both a thank you to one of our members, Alice Phillips, and a description of a method she used to help fix my arthritic hand. Any dowser could use this method. It is simple and very effective.

When Alice was younger (she is now in her 80s) she lived in England and worked as a nurse. She was very interested in healing. Backtracking, around 1953 an engineer called George DeLaWarr (1904-1969) invented the Radionic box. A box with a number of vials into which were placed the hair, blood, saliva or even the name of the patient. The box contained some wiring, an amplification board, some knobs and a rubber pad with a copper coil sandwiched inside.

The radionic machines became very popular for treating various conditions, and Alice wanted to learn how to use them. So she went off to the DeLaWarr Laboratories at Raleigh Park, Oxford in the UK, to do the 2 months course. After the course she wanted to buy one of the machines, which at the time were very expensive. He father offered her a deal: “If you can find the cause and location of my pain, I will buy this expensive machine for you”.

During the First World War, he had been wounded in the abdomen. The surgeon who operated on him in the field, stitched some of his guts to the inner lining of the abdomen by mistake, and her father had been in pain ever since.

Alice did locate and ease her father’s pain using a borrowed DeLaWarr machine and, as promised he bought her the machine. Before the second world war, she migrated to South Africa with her husband and became a physiotherapist. She eventually moved to Australia with her family, learned acupuncture and started a very successful healing practice, using coloured lights, dowsing, magnets, radionics and acupuncture. She joined the Dowzers Society, where I met her later, as you will see.

Ian MacLachlan was a prominent member of the Dowzers Society, he was a keen collector of machines of all sorts. Over the years he had collected a number of radionic machines. After his passing away, the radionic machines were offered for sale at one of the Society's Sunday meetings.

Alice and I bought two identical machines. Alice was keen to reconnect with Radionics and to use it for her patients. Being very inquisitive, I was more curious to find out how it worked than to really use it for healing. To my surprise I found that the circuit inside had no voltage input and no output. This greatly puzzled me, so I contacted Peter Ruehmkorff, our radionics expert (Peter currently designs and sells advanced versions of these machines) and he very kindly explained the operating concepts to me.

Alice called me one day asking if I could fix her machine which did not work. So I went to visit her to find out if I could help. From Peter's input, I realized that the machine only needed a ground connection to work. I remember her look of surprise when I picked up one of her heavy iron pans from the kitchen and hooked it to the machine. The machine worked right away.

At the time I had very painful hands, particularly my thumbs. They gave me pain most of the time. I mentioned this to her, so she picked up her pendulum, a pretty shell at the end of a string, and proceeded to dowse my left thumb.

She slowly moved from my wrist, up to the thumb's nail. Whenever her pendulum would spin anticlockwise, she would take a small magnet, place it on the exact spot. If the spin reversed to clockwise, she would place a piece of sticky tape to hold the magnet in place. If the spin did not reverse, she would turn the magnet over and check again.

By the time she had finished with my left thumb, it was covered with magnets and sticky tape. She then proceeded to the right hand. Imagine me, a French man, with no free hands, I was speechless. She left the magnets for 30 minutes, before allowing me to remove them. This is when Alice told me her fascinating story.

I visited Alice a few more times. We chatted about dowsing and her life, while my thumbs were being treated. Before long, the pain and mobility impairments in my thumbs disappeared. The funny thing is that I did not notice my thumbs returning to normal, they were just eeerrr... 'normal' and I never thought of thanking her. Today I have no trace of arthritis. I can even crack all my fingers, including my thumbs, like I could in my earlier days.

Alice has not come to a meeting for several years now, I believe she is in a retirement home, looking back over a very fulfilled life, healing people and passing on a little bit of her knowledge.

So I want to take this opportunity to officially thank Alice for what she did for me, and wish her the best in her life, while at the same time passing on a little bit of what she taught me.

This technique is very easy to use. Here is the procedure

- Step 1

Prepare yourself. Have some magnets at the ready, spaced out on the surface near you but far enough from each other so that they do not attract each others, and are easy to pick up. Even easier, have some magnets already stuck to small strips of sticky tape. The magnets have a dot on the North facing side. Have some ready with the dot facing out and some with the dot facing in towards the tape. That way if you have to place them close to each other, they will not jump on to each other.

They are devilishly nimble, and are very hard to separate when stuck. Have a heavy sticky tape dispenser ready, so that you can pull more tape with one hand, or even better, prepare some pre-cut tape lengths.

- Step 2

You need to assess what I will call your 'wave length' if you are working on yourself, or the wavelength of your patient if working on someone else. Just like a radio station, you (or your patient) have a particular frequency, and tuning your pendulum to this frequency is important.

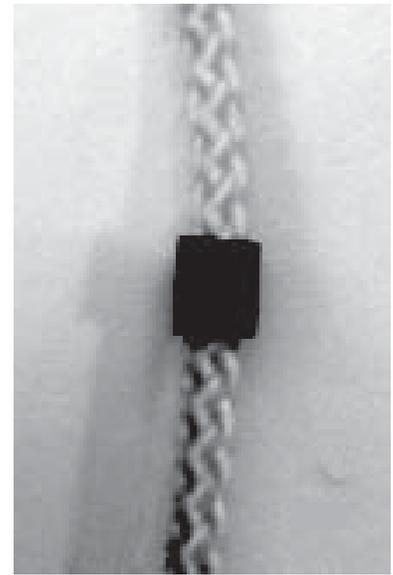

Hold your pendulum over the back of the person's left hand holding the string very, very short. Let it swing back and forth gently while, very slowly, releasing a small length of string at a time. You will reach a particular length of string when the pendulum will start to spin. Notice the direction of the spin (clockwise or anticlockwise) and the length. You can make a knot at that length, so that later, you can hold the knot and be sure to be on the exact location. If treating a patient, do this over the person's left hand, if treating yourself, do this over your left hand.

So now your pendulum has become an antenna, tuned to the person you are working on. Whatever is beneficial to that person, will make the pendulum spin in the same direction, so long as the string length of that particular pendulum is the same. Remember this is not mental dowsing, you do not need to ask any question at all. Keep your mind as blank as you can.

If you do this for another person, do not make a knot on your personal pendulum string at that length. The best way I have found is to make a small ring that you can slide along the string which will not slip too easily. For this, I use a 2 millimeters length of heat-shrink tubing, which I insert down the pendulum string. On the left you can see the small length of heat-shrink tubing being inserted on the string.

On the right, It has been heated with a hot nail held at the end of a pair of pliers and has shrunk to fit the string snugly. (see supplier details at the end of this article)

It is now tight enough over the string to stay in place for the duration of a session. I can move it to a new position for the next person.

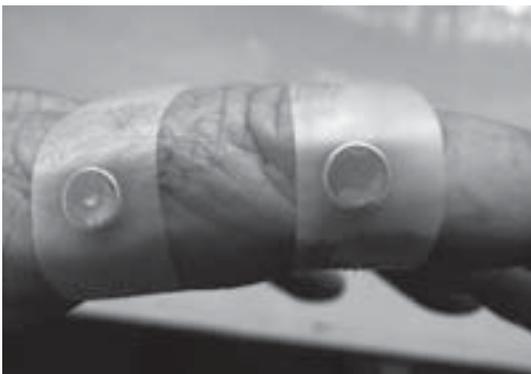

Step 3

Once you have the string length worked out for the person you are treating, move your pendulum slowly over the area of pain, noticing where the pendulum spins in the opposite of the direction you found earlier.

Step 4

Take one of the small magnets (see supplier details at the end of this article) and place it on the location. If the spin does not reverse, turn the magnet over and test again. If it spins correctly, take some sticky tape and place it over the magnet to hold it in place. Then continue your exploration of the pain and surrounding area. On the image on the left, you can see 2 magnets ready, each with a different orientation.

Some locations will need the magnet to be one way, some the other way. You do not have to worry about it. Leave the magnets for 30 minutes then remove taking care when pulling the pieces of tape off.

Never assume that the magnets will go in the same location or in the same orientation, always test. The small magnets have a dot on the 'North facing' side, but with the pendulum, you do not have to concern yourself with the orientation.

Some people believe that exposure to magnets is good and buy magnetic mattresses or magnetic shoe soles. But as with any radiations, continuous exposure to magnetic radiation is not beneficial in the long term. The exposure must be controlled and checked to see if it is still beneficial over time. The sun's rays are beneficial, but would you stay in the sun all day?

Step 5

There is no fixed duration for the treatment. In this case, the magnets were very close to the problem, so 30 minutes was enough. You can use one of the magnets as a control and check from time to time for a spin reversal to know that the exposure time is enough. Longer times may be needed when the problem area is further away from the magnets, like in deep muscles. You can then use stronger magnets like the 1 inch Neodymium magnets.

Step 6

Repeat as often as necessary.

The magnets I use are gold-plated, they are 6 ml in diameter and 2 ml thick, they come in a box of 10 for $15.00. They are called 'Rare Earth Magnets (10) 6x2mm' They are ideal for this kind of pain control work.

Gold Magnets Supplier: Magnetic Attraction,

Gerardine Robinson Tel: 03-9754-1858 Mob: 0404-861-185

Email gerardine@magnetic-attraction.com.au

- Heat-shrink tubing is available at Jaycar www.jaycar.com.au

François Capmeil

Disclaimer: The procedure described above is not a cure and is not meant to replace any medical procedure, please consult your physician if required.

It's Time to Trust Your Intuition!

By Mariana Cooper (Reprinted with author's permission)

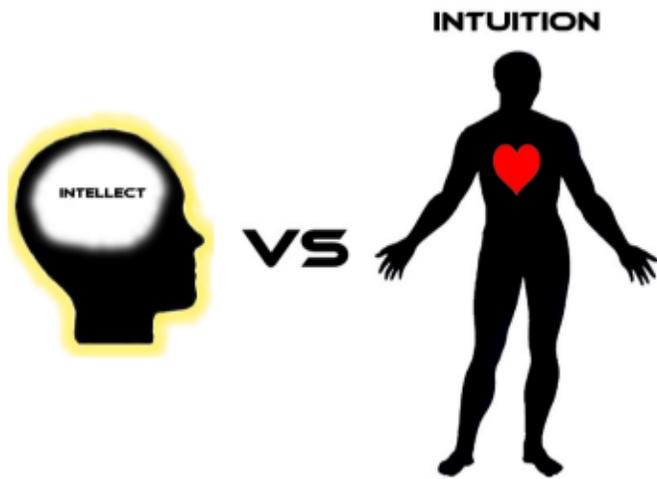

Mariana Cooper, (Mari), 'Your Practical Spirituality Mentor' and Author of the E•book, 'The Intuition Toolkit!', is an Internationally recognized Spiritual Intuitive, Consultant, Speaker and Workshop Leader. She teaches clients to identify, harness and trust their Intuition and powerfully apply it in practical ways throughout their daily lives. She is an Angel Therapy Practitioner and holds both an MBA in marketing and a BA in psychology. For more details: www.letsaskyourangels.com.

As you go through the decisions that you make in your daily life how much do you rely on your Intuition? Do you feel focused and strong in the choices that you make? Or do you feel that you have to deliberate, analyze, weigh out pros and cons, get lots of opinions from friends or family and scare yourself into a decision? Maybe you are one to make a quick decision and then second guess it to the point that you undo what you believed in?

Well you are not alone! We all have had our rounds of confusion and analysis paralysis. The one conclusion is that logic alone does not work. And the answer is to learn how to use a tool that you were actually born with. That tool is your Intuition.

We hear the words 'surrender, trust and let go' all the time. But what does that really mean? And what are we surrendering to? Our logic tells us this is dangerous. So our best attempts to 'Let Go' last a few minutes and then we are back to trying to figure it all out! Your intuition is comprised of the energetic senses that you were born with to assist you in staying connected to your higher or inner self.

We can refer to that self as a number of names, 'Divine Guidance,' God, The Universe etc. I refer to it as Spirit. But essentially it is all the same thing. We are always connected to that power greater than our physical selves and that connection is our Intuition. I have taught classes on 'Letting Go' etc and while people have the best of intentions the thing that really holds them back is a Lack of Trust.

That is because we do not understand the mystery of our Intuition. So here are five key points for you to consider that will hopefully help you get a better handle on the most powerful sense that you have.

1... Your Intuition is your direct and absolute link to communication with Spirit.

2... Your Intuitive senses overlay your physical senses. We get energetic or intuitive feelings through energetic sight (like deja vu), energetic hearing (you hear a small voice that gives you a warning or feels like a hunch to follow), energetic feeling (a gut feeling in your stomach that feels like butterflies or goose bumps) and energetic knowing (feeling like you just know how to do something or how a situation will turn out without learning or cause).

3... Everyone is born with Intuition and has the ability to develop it to be strong and reliable.

4... Intuition is always the most efficient and accurate advice that you can get about any issue, concern or desire.

5... Our society encourages us to ignore our intuition and focus strictly on logic. We disengage from our energetic senses and end up feeling very confused, anxious and taking a very long slow road to happiness.

Your Intuition Is Always Working Whether You Focus on It or Not! When you harness the power of your intuition you are able to fully access your personal power. Not using your intuition is like having eyes and ears and ignoring or fighting their functions. Your eyes and ears are on your head and whether you are concentrating on using them or not they are always working. They become very powerful tools when you deliberately focus your sight or hearing! Think of how hard it would be to watch a wonderful movie or listen to a beautiful symphony without your ears or eyes!

Unwavering Trust begins with Knowing Your Intuition and how to use It! So many people call me for readings and want me to “confirm” for them that their future outcomes of various hopes or problems will be exactly as I predict. This is so disempowering. Real trust comes from having a direct communication with Spirit yourself through understanding, recognizing and knowing how to use and rely on your Intuition!

I have done hundreds of intuitive readings for clients, and the ones who really do the best after the reading is over are the ones who take responsibility for themselves, and use their intuition in combination with their creative problem solving tools. like logic, to decide what to do next: Inspired Action vs. Frantic Chaos. When we ignore our Intuition we feel anxious, confused and uneasy.

We may feel intellectually that it is the ‘right decision’ but something still doesn’t feel certain. So we decide to take lots and lots of action to leave no stone unturned. This creates that going by the seat of your pants or chicken without a head feeling.

When we use our Intuition it may seem illogical but our decision feels right. It feels like a sense of knowing or certainty that you may not be able to describe. And your actions feel inspired. You feel led as opposed to running after an outcome. You feel “guided” to take “Inspired Action” and your hunch feels like a knowing instead of a reckless risk. It’s Time to Empower yourself by harnessing your own Intuition!

When you take the time to learn about, understand and tap into your Intuition you will find that your decisions and actions are so much easier to make! You will live so much more powerfully and efficiently.

Your tasks will be done in a fraction of the time because you will be working from certainty instead of fear! You may consider the opinions of others for a perspective, but you will know that your Intuition has the final say!

Reprinted from the Journal of the Ozark Research Institute, Volume 15 No 1, Winter 2010, with permission

Finger Dowsing

By Joe Smith

You can get YES and NO answers using your index finger as a dowsing tool. The finger will slide easily when you rub it, if the answer is a NO, while trying to stop, if it is YES. Just practice on any slick surface like your dinner table to get the feel of the YES and NO answer, but clean the syrup off first. Clean tables work better.

For example, driving down the highway, use your finger to ask if there are any cops down the road within, say, ten miles. If the finger sticks as you rub it on the dashboard it means “Yes there are”. Your finger might actually chatter just as if it were rubbing over a washboard road. Then ask if the cops are headed towards you. (Each question needs to be separate so that you can get your YES and NO answers.)

I also use this technique to see if it is going to rain the next day. You can even find out how much rain you will get, and I have found it is accurate most of the time. To find out how much it will rain, ask a series of questions like: ‘Will we get an inch of rain to day? “. Then go up or down with your questions till you get the right amount.

You can learn to use a finger and your thumb if you are shopping for the best vegetables or fruit. It is really handy because you don't have to reach for a pendulum and people don't know what you are doing. When you are voting you can use it to find the right candidate while in the booth.

Learn to use any tool that is available. You don't need a hundred dollar pendulum to get an answer. I know a fellow who uses his elbow to pick the right fruit in the store. He picks up a cantaloupe and asks if this is the best one for him. If his elbow comes in and touches his side it means yes. There are all kinds of ways to dowse.

This is all coming from a guy who sells 500 pendulums a year plus bobbbers. All tools are good for certain uses but if you don't have one, improvise with whatever is handy. I made an oil well location with a piece of barbed wire. Coat hangers will work. Tree branches will work. The end of a fishing rod will make a good bobber. The tools are nice but you are the one doing the dowsing, not the tools.

Joe and Marta Smith, based in Nebraska, have been dowsing since 19 74 when they needed a water well on their Nebraska farm. Since then they have taught dowsing at many conferences. Joe is a former trustee of the American Society of Dowsers, and they are charter members of the Ozark Research Ins.

Contact : ismith@igg2jireless.net

*Reprinted from the Journal of the Canadian Society of Dowsers •
No. 1 • Journal 10. Spring 2009*

If Only I Could Have Dowsed

A letter, author unknown

Dear Sir,

I am writing in response to your request for additional information. In section number 3 of the accident reporting form, I put “trying to do the job alone” as the cause of my accident. You said in your letter that I should explain more fully, and I trust that the following details will be sufficient:

I am a bricklayer by trade. On the day of the accident, I was working alone on the roof of a new six story building. When I completed my work, I discovered that I had about 500 pounds of bricks left over. Rather than carry the bricks down by hand, I decided to lower them in a barrel by using a pulley, which, fortunately, was attached to the side of the building at the sixth floor.

Securing the rope at ground level, I went up to the roof, swung the barrel out and loaded the bricks into it. Then I went back to the ground and untied the rope, holding it tight to ensure a slow descent of the 500 pounds of bricks. You will note, in section 11 of the accident reporting form, that I weigh 135 pounds.

Due to my surprise at being ‘jerked off’ the ground so suddenly, I lost my presence of mind and forgot to let go of the rope. Needless to say, I proceeded at a rather rapid rate up the side of the building.

In the vicinity of the third floor, I met the barrel coming down. This explains the fractured skull and broken collarbone. Slowed only slightly, I continued my rapid ascent, not stopping until the fingers of my right hand were two knuckles deep into the pulley. Fortunately, by this time, I had regained my presence of mind and was able to hold tightly to the rope in spite of my pain.

At approximately the same time, however, the barrel of bricks hit the ground, and the bottom broke out of the barrel.

Devoid of the weight of the bricks, the barrel now weighed approximately fifty pounds.

I refer you again to my weight in the accident reporting form. As you might imagine, I began a rapid descent down the side of the building. In the vicinity of the third floor, I met the barrel coming up. This accounted for the two fractured ankles and the lacerations on my legs and lower body.

The encounter with the barrel slowed me enough to lessen my injuries when I fell onto the pile of bricks, and fortunately, only three vertebrae were cracked.

I am sorry to report, however, that as I lay there on the bricks in pain, unable to stand, and watching the empty barrel six stories above me...I again lost my presence of mind...and let go of the rope!

Quote of the day

*“It is not happiness that makes us grateful;
it is gratefulness that makes us happy.”*

Brother David Steindl-Rast

A Memorable ASD Convention

by Stanley Bartlett

Bruce Irwin and I had the pleasure of connecting recently and discovering our connection through the ASD organization. I told him about my work over many years as a teacher/lecturer of Feng Shui and other earth energy subjects, and we fell into ‘talking shop’” Our conversation wound its way around to ASD’s annual conventions, and I shared the following story that occurred at the 1995 convention.

I was on the stage with my friend Clif Sanderson at Lyndonville State College for Clif’s keynote presentation to the convention that year. Clif was taking written questions from the audience after I sorted through them for him. As I read out one of the questions, “What can we do as a group to bring about universal harmony?” I became aware of some commotion off to the right where all eyes had turned towards a person who had collapsed onto the floor. Not sure at first what had happened, Clif walked over and placed his hand on the man’s chest to find no obvious pulse.

There was a murmur from the audience as he returned to the stage and explained. He talked about the connection between another question – “How can we help?” – and the situation at hand. He invited all of us to quietly wish this person a good journey. Into that special silence came an extraordinary experience as the people in the packed auditorium focused on thoughts of this man.

It was clear to all of us that at some level we were all receiving healing and alignment. From this unity came a true understanding of Clif’s message, that is, simply, the importance of allowing an appropriate outcome to arise without imposing conditions distorted by our intellect. Within moments, the EMTs arrived and put the patient onto the stretcher, expecting to go straight to the hospital.

The big surprise for all of us at the convention came the next morning. Father Kelly, a Catholic priest – the ‘dead’ man – appeared for breakfast!

He was not only happy and full of life, but he told everyone, with some relish, that he had come to the convention hoping to find someone who could help his rapidly failing eyesight, and he now had 20/20 vision! His healing was complete.

He told us that during the ambulance ride, he had come to. “I am fine,” he exclaimed to the EMTs. “Take me back to the college!” He explained that when he was in the tunnel/worm hole, the Light became strong. He felt all the love coming from everyone at the convention and decided that it was not time to die and so he came back.

I know many people remember this convention because there were also shamans from South America present, who had come to the States to bring the foretold integration of the Condor (South-spiritual) with the Eagle (North-technology) symbolism. And no one could forget that the day before Clif’s keynote speech, the energies got so strong that there was a most unexpected rain that flooded the local town for about thirty minutes and then left a cleansed and beautiful purity to follow.

For several years afterward, Father Kelly regularly wrote to Clif from Florida, always grateful for the help and the experience the people at that ASD convention had shared with him. At the time of the convention, Clif had been using the phrase ‘intentional healing’ in his work, but now he prefers the much more subtle term ‘deep field relaxation’.

Since that time, many people all over the world have learned this approach which nicely encourages the blending of science with active spirituality. Indeed, in comprehensive research, Harvard University’s Dr Herbert Benson has recently declared that deep relaxation could be “a phenomenon that could be just as powerful as any medical drug but without the side-effects” (Anastasia Stephens, The Independent, UK).

Clif had previously spent time in Belarus and the Russian Federation following the Chernobyl nuclear explosion, that caused millions of people to be exposed to dramatic life and health changes. He spent many years there assisting people by using his gifts of healing and Feng Shui. He worked in hospitals and, under his guidance, many doctors and even nuclear physicists learned how to use intention and relaxation to reduce the effects of radiation. Later, this highly successful work was scientifically documented and published, and Clif received the Albert Schweitzer Award for Humanitarian Service to Medicine.

Clif Sanderson can be reached at clifnz@gmail.com

www.deep-field-relaxation.com

Stanley Bartlett: fengshui@bartlettdesigns.com or www.bartlettdesigns.com.

Library News

Intersting websites and Newsletters

Insider Alert (www.NaturalNews.com) email newsletter

NaturalNews

<http://montalk.net/notes/tuning-forks-and-megalithic-technology#top>

<http://www.msgmyth.com/hidename.htm>

<http://www.awakeninthedream.com/wordpress/?p=112>

<http://www.gmwatch.org/>

New Books

‘The Occult’ by Colin Wilson

The Ultimate book for those who would walk with the Gods.

‘Ley Lines in Question’ by Tom Williamson & Liz Bellamy

For many reasons this enquiry into alternative archaeology makes essential reading for both the ley-line enthusiast and the orthodox archaeologist.

Marilyn Smith