Colour Therapy

Allan is the man behind the Colour Therapy Clinic in Hamilton, New Zealand. Quite a few of our members have visited him in New Zealand and we now have a chance to have him explain the benefits of Colour Therapy to us directly.

You can read a complete description of the Colour Therapy process in our January newsletter, written after Francois Capmeil personally visited the clinic in New Zealand and had a diagnosis and treatment myself.

Colour Therapy is very popular in New Zealand, and Allan's clinic receives patients from all around the world. Allan can do a diagnosis based on a person's witness (urine or sweat) and send a mini colour machine overseas and supply the tabulations as required.

You will have a unique chance to have your own diagnosis, as Allan will also be doing diagnostic sessions on Friday May 13th and Saturday 14th for those interested. See on page 24 for details.

From the President

Last month I asked members to share food for afternoon tea at our monthly meeting. Your response was immediate and fulsome. Thank you. Metaphorically, the action is being replicated over the whole earth as people are starting to reach out to others. The imperatives of war are weakening, the mad, destructive greed is halting with initiatives like the Rights of Nature being incorporated into the new Ecuador constitution in 2008. Political change can be achieved by non violence. The love of power is yielding to the power of love.

People all over are beginning to recognise that the people we are waiting for, the new race of human beings, are ourselves. The future changes are taking place now but if you looked for confirmation in the media, you would look in vain. Only the internet belongs to the common man, that uncontrollable sprawling network of iconoclastic reality which they can't shut down permanently all over the world at once. That's where you will find the real news... the real rates of the radiation from Fukushima, the billions stolen by the banksters, the pollution from the air, on the land and in the sea, Government cover-ups, deadly vaccines. 2008.

But there are positives as well. Many initiatives from the grass roots to create a new cleaner, fairer world. It's all truly there.

We have to individuate, making up our own minds about who we are and what we believe, ignoring leading figures in government and spirituality, using our dowsing. The real work is inside ourselves, breathing from our heart, coming to love and appreciate ourselves. In a contest between freedom and control, the former is the clear winner. Come to our next meeting and enjoy the best afternoon tea in the world.

Best wishes

What Can We Do Together?

by Clif & Galina Sanderson

We are all connected! Now more than ever before - the whole planet and its inhabitants are facing unpredictable damage if we, humans, won't understand what is really happening after the recent tsunami and earthquakes in Japan. As a result of the accidents in Japan's nuclear plants, the great fear of radiation, angst and animosity are spreading, and that can make us petrified and ineffective at this very moment.

Governments, related agencies and scientific institutions are not releasing truthful information, which is changing from day to day, and are unable to provide useful answers. As a global family of conscious creatives, we urgently need to find those answers if we are to deal with constantly arising multiple challenges in clear and constructive ways, based in practicality, determination and intelligence.

In a way that has never been called for before.

In times of uncertainty and confusion we choose to turn for answers to spiritual and wisdom traditions of the world. They show us possibilities of survival and flourishing, giving us courage and hope for the future.

In the Maori culture of New Zealand, as in many other cultures, it is traditional to look after and take care of each other. Everybody also is seen as Kaitiaki, a guardian of the world. Kaitiaki's responsibility for the future generations is to preserve, take care and protect the physical environment along with the cultural values. And yes,

*'We are all connected
To each other, biologically.
To the earth, chemically.
To the rest of the universe, atomically'*

Neil de Grasse Tyson physicist

With coinciding revolutions happening in the Arab world at the same moment as a radiation threat, we are faced with the choice to either allow the human race to descend into anarchy, in-fighting and endless sorrow, neighbours, fighting neighbours or lift out of the darkness through understanding the power of the still and focused collective mind.

In no way are we trying to convince anybody how to see the issue of radiation. Nuclear accidents are a pertinent point in our own biography - Galina and myself witnessed and became participants of the events connected to the accident at the Chernobyl nuclear plant in 1986.

For five years after the Chernobyl disaster, together with her infant son Galina lived in Belarus, the country most affected by that explosion. There was no medical protocol established to treat radiation related illnesses.

Children who lived 600 km away from the Chernobyl plant were dying from leukemia, thyroid cancer and numerous blood disorders. Many others struggled with nosebleeds, headaches, digestive and psychological problems. Galina and her son experienced damage to their health, caused by eating food contaminated with low-level radiation. As a desperate call for help she researched and produced a documentary 'To Whom It May Concern' (watch it on YouTube in 2 parts http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=B2dV\_hHNLO8 <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=pi8aC9Knwb4>)

Clif responded to Galina's call and offered to use an energy-based approach to radiation related illnesses in hospitals and clinics throughout Belarus and Russia.

Together we initiated and took part in several medical research projects in applying Deep Field Relaxation and other natural healing modalities to the victims of Chernobyl.

Results of these research projects were published in several magazines in the US and the UK (they are available on request).

Since Fukushima nuclear plant explosion, a vigorous debate started unfolding between supporters and opponents of nuclear energy. If the scientists and journalists who claim that radiation is safe, are right, then those who don't agree with them are clearly nothing more than troublemakers and scaremongers.

However, the evidence presented to us by medical doctors and nuclear scientists in Belarus and Russia, leave no space to doubt that numerous lives have been lost or changed forever because of radiation.

At the same time by leading people into even brief moments of quietness and freedom from fear, we saw that mental and physical suffering was considerably alleviated and reduced.

Professor Vasili Nesterenko, former head of Nuclear Physics Institute of the Belarus Academy of Sciences, and a leader in monitoring radiation levels in the country, pointed out to us a peculiar fact. He measured that in villages where there was a church building, people's health was much better than in villages where there was no church. Even though the church had not been used for more than 70 years, it represented a higher spiritual power which without doubt made a dramatic difference.

Clif saw radiation as another form of energy, special frequencies, which he believed, could be dealt with by a trained mind. He courageously suggested to Prof. Nesterenko to conduct two experiments. In the first experiment Clif simply held two containers in his hands - one with highly radioactive wood chips and another with radioactive water. In the second experiment he meditated on each container for fifteen minutes. The results were more than surprising to the scientist. Nesterenko found that the levels of radiation in the containers after the meditation became destabilized. That proved that focused intention can affect radiation and could alter its behavior in programmed ways.

During later medical research Clif also proved that by being in a state of deep relaxation while treating children, the amount of radionuclides (small charged particles) in the body could be significantly reduced.

After his sessions the percentage of children who had high level radioactivity in their urine dropped from 38.9% to 9.09%. There were sixty-four other parameters which were also measured and changed.

So the question arises - can everybody expect the same sort of results when dealing with radiation, or can only special individuals do this?

Clif insists that in the present extreme situation of global crisis and ongoing earth changes, we are all capable of producing these small 'miracles'. If we choose to diligently support the needs of our physical body, focusing our awareness inwards, if we regularly work on clearing thought patterns and mind resistances, we reduce our own fear and the frequency of our cellular vibration will rise.

In that elevated state of being we become ready to meet and withstand the present and upcoming challenges.

Let's embrace the whole planet with our compassion, allowing ourselves to feel the grief of all sentient beings, animals, birds, plants, people. At the same time, let us connect with ever present joy and in our minds see all beings becoming strong and resilient.

The paradox of the Deep Field lies in understanding that when we remain calm and relaxed, when we bring awareness inwards, we immediately become much more connected within the Field. In this way we are able to generate positive changes for our Global Family.

Some suggestions for elevating the frequency of our cellular vibration:

- Detoxify the body with Spirulina and Chlorella, take kelp and other seaweed from unpolluted sources*
- Choose vibrant, fresh, unprocessed food
- Be in touch with the earth, plant the garden, walk barefoot
- Laugh a lot together with friends!
- Practice relaxation exercise daily - qigong, yoga, diaphragmatic breathing
- Make time for meditation, chanting, dancing, singing, drumming
- Offer time for community service
- Be grateful for even small things
- Release judgments about others and yourself
- Enjoy whatever you do!
- More than before, frequently take time for contemplation

**On request we can provide radiation detoxifying protocol*

What is Deep Field Relaxation (DFR)?

DFR is a process of suspending the mind and going into the silence, a quiet Space where natural forces allow appropriate changes to take place. It is a ground-breaking healing approach which takes us beyond illness and limitations of the human mind. DFR is a synthesis of traditional wisdom from many cultures and scientific ideas about intention, energy, information and transformation of consciousness. But more than that – it is a way of living life in accordance with the laws of Nature – being calm, relaxed and always finding inner Joy.

Deep Field Relaxation is also a set of mind tools which allows you in a quantum moment to access the amazing, proven state of deep relaxation.

It was founded by Clif Sanderson more than thirty years ago and has been practiced in more than 20 countries. Clif has taught DFR in medical colleges, private clinics and to wider audiences.

With DFR it is common to experience changes in conditions such as: stress, depression, anxiety, insomnia, infertility, chronic pain, fatigue, weight problems, emotional imbalances.

As a result of experiencing DFR people report:

Increased feeling of vitality, clarity of thinking, joyful and a relaxed state of mind, general well-being, finding a bigger purpose in life, meeting a right partner.

You can learn more about Deep Field Relaxation here:

www.DeepFieldRelaxation.com

Clif has written a book called, 'Knowing Nothing, Living Happy', which is available on the above website. There is also a CD available allowing you to experience DFR by yourself.

The book has now been translated into German, and Clif & Galina are now on their way to a tour of Europe to present it to the German public.

(I have personally experienced a deep field relaxation healing session with Clif, and I use the CD from time to time. I do recommend it. Ed)

- Waking Up -

Today, our way of living is faced with many world-wide challenges. These challenges have mostly affected other continents, countries and cities than our own, although Australia has had its share of drought and floods.

These challenges come in the form of earthquakes, tsunamis, radio-activity leaks, landslides, tornados, floods, droughts etc. Because they have mostly affected other people, it is easy to think that we are OK, that our way of living does not need to change, that we do not need to wake up.

But now with radio-active material floating freely in the winds and the oceans, we can no longer rest in the illusion of separation. We are all of the human race, sharing the same archetype, sharing the same need for happiness and contentment. We should all feel part of the same one organism, but for whatever the reason, we are experiencing the illusion of separation; separation from each other, from other species and from our own planet.

The fact is, we all live on the same planet, a planet totally unique in the solar system and perhaps even, as far as we know, in the galaxy. It would stand to reason to care for it, to protect, and to revere it as our vehicle in space. Imagine the astronauts in the space station starting to dig holes into the walls, destroying power supplies, cutting hoses and shooting at each other. It would become very quickly evident that they are endangering their very existence. Well I have come to the realisation that this is exactly what is being done to our planet. The more I observe this process, the more I feel that there is a systematic and conscious mechanism that is driving this wanton destruction. If we do not wake up and take a stand against it, it will be too late.

How can we do that? Not by protesting in the street, it is too late for that, the only way left now is to express Love and Compassion, these inner feelings will draw other people feeling the same and will wake up the Spirit-which-moves-in-all-things. Can we wait for outside help, when the Elders are saying that “We are the ones we have been waiting for?”

So, coming back to us, as a Dowsers Society, devoted towards teaching people how to get a more subtle connection with themselves and with life, we do feel very close to all the people who are challenged. This is particularly true when the challenge has to do with water. Dowsers Societies world-wide support associations like ‘Water for Humanity’, ‘TPRF’ and many others who bring clean underground water access to local people in places like Ghana, Africa, Guatemala, South America, India and many other water challenged countries.

Clean water is an essential ingredient for a healthy life. One in eight people in the world live without it. Facilitating easy access to clean water is one of the best and most needed ways to improve village life. In some places, villagers spend a large amount of their time carrying water back to their village from far away wells, that are often contaminated by animals competing for the water.

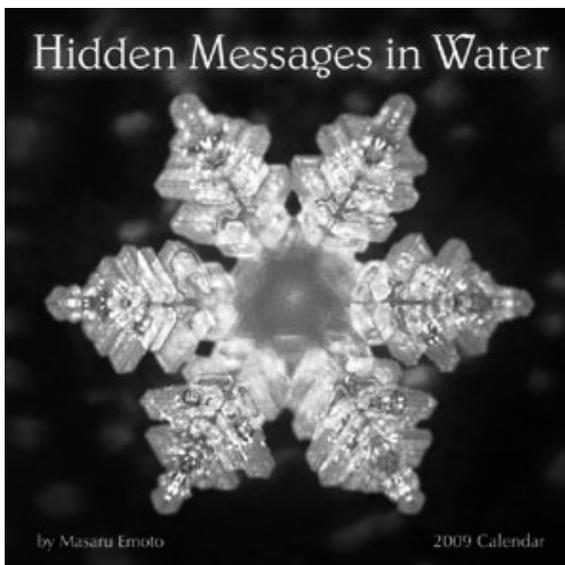

The Dowsers Society of NSW had not taken part in any of these projects before, that is until March this year. At the March 2011 council meeting held before the 2011 AGM, Noel Jordan, our president noted that we had quite a lot of spare cash, and that we could use it to help others. The response from the rest of the council was immediate and positive. Various proposals were presented right away. The one that was selected, because of the immediacy, was to send some financial help to the people of Japan with an initial monetary donation of $1500.

After the council meeting, during the AGM, we asked our members if they would endorse the proposal with a vote. There was a unanimous response supporting the proposal to send the initial amount of $1500 to help Japan via a trustworthy charitable organisation.

The organisation that was chosen for this was TPRF, which has an excellent track record of efficiency, and already supports many 'Water' and 'Food for People' projects in South America, Africa and India.

Physical help is very needed, but there are other types of help that we can provide. Each of us can, without having to open our purse, participate and join in. As an example, just before the Water seminar at Tabrabucca, I received a chain email originating from Dr Masaru Emoto, in Japan, requesting as many people as possible to join in and send prayers to the ocean waters near the nuclear disaster area, in North Japan. Dr Emoto is the scientist who established the fact that water is alive and does respond to prayers, as shown by his many water-crystal experiments.

<http://www.masaru-emoto.net>

Responding to that request, during the Saturday evening session of the Tabrabucca weekend, George Parfoot lead a group meditation and prayer, to join our prayers to those of people all around the world, linking energetically to heal the waters of Japan. Of course, given time, these waters will eventually drift by Bondi Beach,...we are no longer isolated.

Australia may be an island, but eventually the same radioactive molecules of water that were discharged in the ocean outside of the Fukushima atomic power station, will come by Bondi Beach.

As an example, I found this map on the internet showing the drift pattern of radioactive material carried by the winds in the Northern hemisphere. Already farm produce from California is getting contaminated. It is only a matter of time before these contaminated particles find their way to the Southern hemisphere.

I remember many years ago seeing a cartoon of a man sitting on the branch of a tree, cutting the very branch he was sitting on. It is no laughing matter today, as we appear to be doing just that right now.

The challenges we are facing as a race are often filled with horror, sorrow and emotion, but they have positive side effects which we are rarely aware of. I remember reading a channelling from Kryon (http://www.kryon.com/k\_chanelDC05.html) after the tsunami which hit Indonesia on Boxing Day 2004, and killed some 200,000 people.

Kryon said that the compassion coming from all the people who felt the pain and suffering inflicted by the disaster, and responded either in their heart, or with physically help, had changed the energy of the planet, and brought us all a little closer as a race.

“There was so much compassion created at that time, in that one week, the earth has never seen anything like it in your lifetime. Billions of humans were involved with a compassion that instantly went to the core of the planet. It went into the earth and it’s still there. It changed the actual energy of where you walk and planted a seed that will grow, that will indeed emerge later to help create peace on earth through a consciousness shift within Gaia itself.”

I have felt that recently, personally, as I have a friend in Tokyo whom I called after the disaster had spread radioactivity all over the country. She said how much closer people felt and how they are helping each other. Someone else sent me a copy of a letter from a lady called Anne, who lives in the area now being evacuated. I include this letter below, because it illustrates how much we have lost and how a return to real value is so badly needed.

Sendai, Japan, March 2011

Dear Friends,

Things here in Sendai have been rather surreal. But I am very blessed to have wonderful friends who are helping me a lot. Since my shack is even more worthy of that name, I am now staying at a friend’s home. We share supplies like water, food and a kerosene heater. We sleep lined up in one room, eat by candlelight, share stories. It is warm, friendly, and beautiful.

During the day we help each other clean up the mess in our homes. People sit in their cars, looking at news on their navigation screens, or line up to get drinking water when a source is open. If someone has water running in their home, they put out a sign so people can come to fill up their jugs and buckets.

It’s utterly amazingly that where I am there has been no looting, no pushing in lines. People leave their front door open, as it is safer when an earthquake strikes. People keep saying, “Oh, this is how it used to be in the old days when everyone helped one another.”

Quakes keep coming. Last night they struck about every 15 minutes. Sirens are constant and helicopters pass overhead often.

We got water for a few hours in our homes last night, and now it is for half a day. Electricity came on this afternoon. Gas has not yet come on. But all of this is by area. Some people have these things, others do not. No one has washed for several days. We feel grubby, but there are so much more important concerns than that for us now. I love this peeling away of non-essentials. Living fully on the level of instinct, of intuition, of caring, of what is needed for survival, not just of me, but of the entire group.

There are strange parallel universes happening. Houses a mess in some places, yet then a house with futons or laundry out drying in the sun. People lining up for water and food, and yet a few people out walking their dogs. All happening at the same time.

Other unexpected touches of beauty are, first, the silence at night. No cars. No one out on the streets. And the heavens at night are scattered with stars. I usually can see about two, but now the whole sky is filled. The mountains around Sendai are solid and with the crisp air we can see them silhouetted against the sky magnificently.

And the Japanese themselves are so wonderful. I come back to my shack to check on it each day, now to send this e-mail since the electricity is on, and I find food and water left in my entranceway. I have no idea from whom, but it is there. Old men in green hats go from door to door checking to see if everyone is OK. People talk to complete strangers asking if they need help. I see no signs of fear. Resignation, yes, but fear or panic, no.

They tell us we can expect aftershocks, and even other major quakes, for another month or more. And we are getting constant tremors, rolls.

shaking, rumbling. I am blessed in that I live in a part of Sendai that is a bit elevated, a bit more solid than other parts. So, so far this area is better off than others. Last night my friend's husband came in from the country, bringing food and water. Blessed again.

Somehow at this time I realize from direct experience that there is indeed an enormous Cosmic evolutionary step that is occurring all over the world right at this moment. And somehow as I experience the events happening now in Japan, I can feel my heart opening very wide. My brother asked me if I felt so small because of all that is happening. I don't. Rather, I feel as part of something happening that is much larger than myself. This wave of birthing (worldwide) is hard, and yet magnificent.

Thank you again for your care and Love of me,

With Love in return to you all, Anne

Another friend of mine, living in Tokyo is saying that the greatest problem at the moment is finding drinking water that is not contaminated. A lot of the spring water is now used by industry, leaving little for bottled water for the population. I am now making devices called 'Nuke Busters' for shipping to Japan. They are made of Orgonite with specific crystals to counter the effects of radioactivity.

So, we see the wisdom of learning the skill to find your own water, like we did at Tabrabucca a couple of weekends ago. It is not hard, within one day we all had a chance to find a water vein of flowing drinkable good quality water. To confirm, Trevor took us to where he had dug a shallow well on the very water vein we had been working with, it was very empowering. This skill may well be our saving grace one day in the not too distant future.

Dowsing and Letting Go

Everyone is a Dowser,
they just don't know that they are.

by Jo Anne Eadie,

Reprinted from the Canadian Society of Dowsers Newsletter

I began to dowse in the mid nineties. I didn't trust my answers enough to dowse anything I considered important in my life. I wasn't sure why I was a dowser. I wasn't sure why I kept trying it. Where was this all leading? Would anyone ever take me seriously as a dowser? I didn't even take myself seriously.

I just kept at it, dowsing issues and items where it really didn't matter if I got the right answer or not. I began to notice that my answers were correct more and more of the time when I didn't care. This is the ultimate letting go. If you don't care what the answer is, you let go of the outcome and the result is that more often than not, you are correct.

I also began to notice that sometimes I knew the answers just as my pendulum began to swing in the direction of the answer. Then the answers began to come without even using my pendulum. My body sometimes begins to sway in a positive or negative way even when I am not using that method of body dowsing, and the answer is there.

Dowsing is an exercise in opening up your intuition, that has often times become dormant because of the logic and science we have had drummed into us in life and school. In school we are taught that  $2 + 2 = 4$  and the way you prove that is  $4 - 2 = 2$ . From then on, we must have all answers proven out. They must make sense. We cannot just make things up in our head.

We are also programmed by school and life in general to 'get things right' and a lot of people give up on their dowsing because they don't get what they consider are the 'right' answers. It makes them uncomfortable when they perceive that they are 'wrong'.

I think that my dowsing is always correct on some level, in some dimension, on some planet, at some time or place. If I can give myself that cushion, it is another way of letting go of the outcome.

One day a couple of years ago, while leaving my farm and driving just three km to the stop light that leads to the highway, there were five or six dead animals on our country road. I said “God bless you” as I passed each one, but it bothered me that so many had been killed. All of a sudden, I just made mental fences in my mind, that would keep the animals at the side of the road when a car was approaching.

In the next few weeks, I didn't see any more dead animals on the road, and even saw live animals approach the side of the road and either wait, until I passed, or turn and go back into the field away from the road. My mental fences were working. For several months afterwards, the road seemed clear of dead animals.

Put a mental protective bubble around your car, a nice big rubber bubble. When someone is following too closely, mentally push the bubble out the back of your car. Imagine it going out just like when you blow a bubble when chewing bubble gum. Then look into your rear view mirror. The car behind you moves back. (Be careful doing this, as your attention is looking into the rear view mirror. You might be so astounded that this works, you may look too long and become the one following too closely yourself.)

Sometimes when I'm driving in the middle lane on a highway, someone begins to move into my lane because they haven't properly checked to see if anyone is coming and I am in their blind spot, and I will often see them bounce off my bubble. You may say that they see me at the last minute and make a correction, but I have had it happen often enough that I believe it is my bubble they bounce off.

In these mental exercises, I have to let go of the outcome and trust that it will work and it does.

A few years ago, dowsing became more and more useful in my life as I began to use it in my business, more for clearing non-beneficial energy rather than for making choices. I also like to clear or change the frequency of things physical or mental. I can easily trust that the clearing is being completed at least on some level.

If you can't prove it out at the current moment, then you can suspend the judgment and let go of the outcome. It is most exciting when you have done a clearing, and days or even weeks later, you discover evidence that your dowsing was correct and beneficial for someone or some issue.

Your dowsing is only limited by the limits of your imagination.

The Dam Beavers

This is an actual letter sent to a man by the Michigan State Department of Environmental Quality.

The response is hilarious, but read the State's letter before you go to the response letter.

Dear Mr. DeVries:

It has come to the attention of the Department of Environmental Quality that there has been recent unauthorized activity. You have been certified as the legal landowner and/or contractor who did the following unauthorized activity... Construction and maintenance of two wood debris dams.

A permit must be issued prior to the start of this type of activity. A review of the Department's files shows that no permits have been issued. Therefore, the Department has determined that this activity is in violation of Part 301, ... of the Michigan Laws.

The Department has been informed that one or both of the dams partially failed during a recent rain event, causing debris and flooding. We find that dams of this nature are inherently hazardous and cannot be permitted. Therefore the Department orders you to cease and desist all activities at this location, and to restore the stream to a free flow condition.

All restoration work shall be completed no later than Jan 31, 03. Please notify this office when the restoration has been completed. Please feel free to contact me at this office if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

David L. Price,
Dist. Rep. Land/Water Management Division

Dear Mr. Price:

Your certified letter has been handed to me.

I am the legal landowner but not the Contractor. A couple of beavers are in the process of constructing and maintaining two wood "debris" dams across the outlet. While I did not pay for, authorize, nor supervise their dam project, I think they would be highly offended that you call their skillful use of nature's building materials "debris."

I would like to challenge your department to attempt to emulate their dam project. I believe there is no way you could ever match their dam skills, their dam resourcefulness, their dam ingenuity, their dam persistence, their dam determination and/or their dam work ethic.

As to your request, I do not think the beavers are aware that they must first fill out a dam permit prior to the start of this type of dam activity. My first dam question to you is:

- (a) Are you trying to discriminate against my beavers or,
- (b) Do you require all beavers throughout the State to conform to said dam request?

I request completed copies of all those other applicable beaver dam permits that have been issued. Perhaps we will see if there really is a dam violation of Part 301, Michigan Laws.

I have several concerns. My first concern is, aren't the beavers entitled to legal representation? The Beavers are financially destitute and are unable to pay for said representation, so the State will have to provide them with a dam lawyer.

The Department's dam concern, that either one or both of the dams failed during a recent rain event causing flooding is proof that this is a natural occurrence, which the Department is required to protect. In other words, we should leave the Beavers alone rather than harassing them and calling their dam names.

If you want the stream "restored" to a dam free flow condition please contact the beavers, but if you are going to arrest them, they obviously did not pay any attention to your dam letter, they being unable to read English.

The Beavers have the right to build their unauthorized dams as long as the sky is blue, the grass is green and the water flows downstream. If the department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection lives up to its name, it should protect the natural resources (Beavers) and the environment (Beavers' Dams).

So, as far as the beavers and I are concerned, this dam case can be referred for more elevated enforcement action right now. Why wait until 1/31/2003? The Beavers may be under the dam ice then and there will be no way for you or your dam staff to contact/harass them then.

In conclusion, I would like to bring to your attention a real environmental quality (health) problem in the area. It is the bears!

Bears are actually defecating in our woods. I definitely believe you should be persecuting the defecating bears and leave the beavers alone.

If you are going to investigate the beaver dam, watch your step! (The Bears are not careful where they dump!)

Being unable to comply with your dam request, and being unable to contact you on your dam answering machine, I am sending this response to your dam office.

Thank-you,

Ryan DeVries & The Dam Beavers

Of Bugs And Mice

By Harold McCoy

Reprinted from ORI Journal Vol. 1, No. 11

When I retired from the Army, I bought 75 acres in the country. I bulldozed a place in the woods, one quarter mile off the road, and we put in a house, a lawn and a garden. There were lots of animals and insects around, and we couldn't walk out the door without the ticks and chiggers just jumping on us. Anybody who has had anything to do with ticks and chiggers will tell you that they aren't very nice.

I was experimenting and I thought I could do something about this. I sat in my chair and started meditating. I built an energy bubble. I visualized this bubble, emanating from the area of my solar plexus. I visualized the bubble, getting bigger and bigger, soon it was so large that it encompassed the entire house, lawn, and garden. This energy bubble is nothing more than a thought form, and you can program thought forms. I programmed the bubble with an affirmation "ticks and chiggers will be very uncomfortable in this energy bubble, especially near the center, the further out they get, the better they will feel." In a couple of days there were no ticks or chiggers anywhere in the yard.

I could roll and play in the grass with the grandchildren and not get a tick or chigger. But if I walked out past the edge of the yard where the bubble ended, the ticks and chiggers were all over the place. This energy field or thought form will stay there forever, or until I erase it.

A lady from Texas called me. She said that she had 15 acres with a pony in a corral, and fire ants were just starting to encroach. The ants were building big ant hills. Fire ants are poisonous and vicious and can kill an animal. The lady was concerned that her pony might brush up against an ant hill and be harmed.

She had heard about my success with ticks and chiggers, and wondered if I could do anything with fire ants. I told her to draw a diagram of her place and show North on the drawing (I like to orient myself). I built an energy bubble around her place, based on her diagram, and programmed the thought form as I had for the ticks and chiggers.

I soon received a letter from the lady saying that the ants had immediately stopped building their nests and had started vacating the ones closest in. By the time she wrote, all the ant hills had been vacated and there wasn't a live ant around. I don't kill the ants. I just make it so uncomfortable for them that they leave.

My success with the ticks, chiggers and fire-ants must have gotten around, because I received a letter from an individual in California who had just built a house overlooking the Pacific Ocean, near the edge of a forest. The house had become inundated with field mice from the forest. The man said he was killing about ten mice a day. He said there were also spiders everywhere in the house, especially black widow spiders. He wanted to know if I could help him. He sent me a drawing of his place and I started working on the problem. I did it the same way, using the energy bubble, and programming the thought form.

A year or so later I met this man at a dowsing conference, where I was giving a presentation. He came forward and related his story to those in attendance. "We had a house full of mice. The mice were in the kitchen, they were eating in.. wife's cosmetics, they were everywhere. The only place they couldn't get was in the refrigerator. They were in the attic, we could hear them chewing in the middle of the night and we couldn't get rid of them. We had mouse traps going all the time, the mouse traps would kill them and I was sick of killing them. We were killing them by the dozens. In a period of just a few days, after Harold went to work, they were all gone... and by the way the spiders went too!"

Consciousness, Philosophy & Dowsing

We know that only a small proportion of our large human brain is involved with daily conscious activities.

Most is involved with running the various systems of the body and its control systems, including the hormonal controls, and the deeper levels of our consciousness.

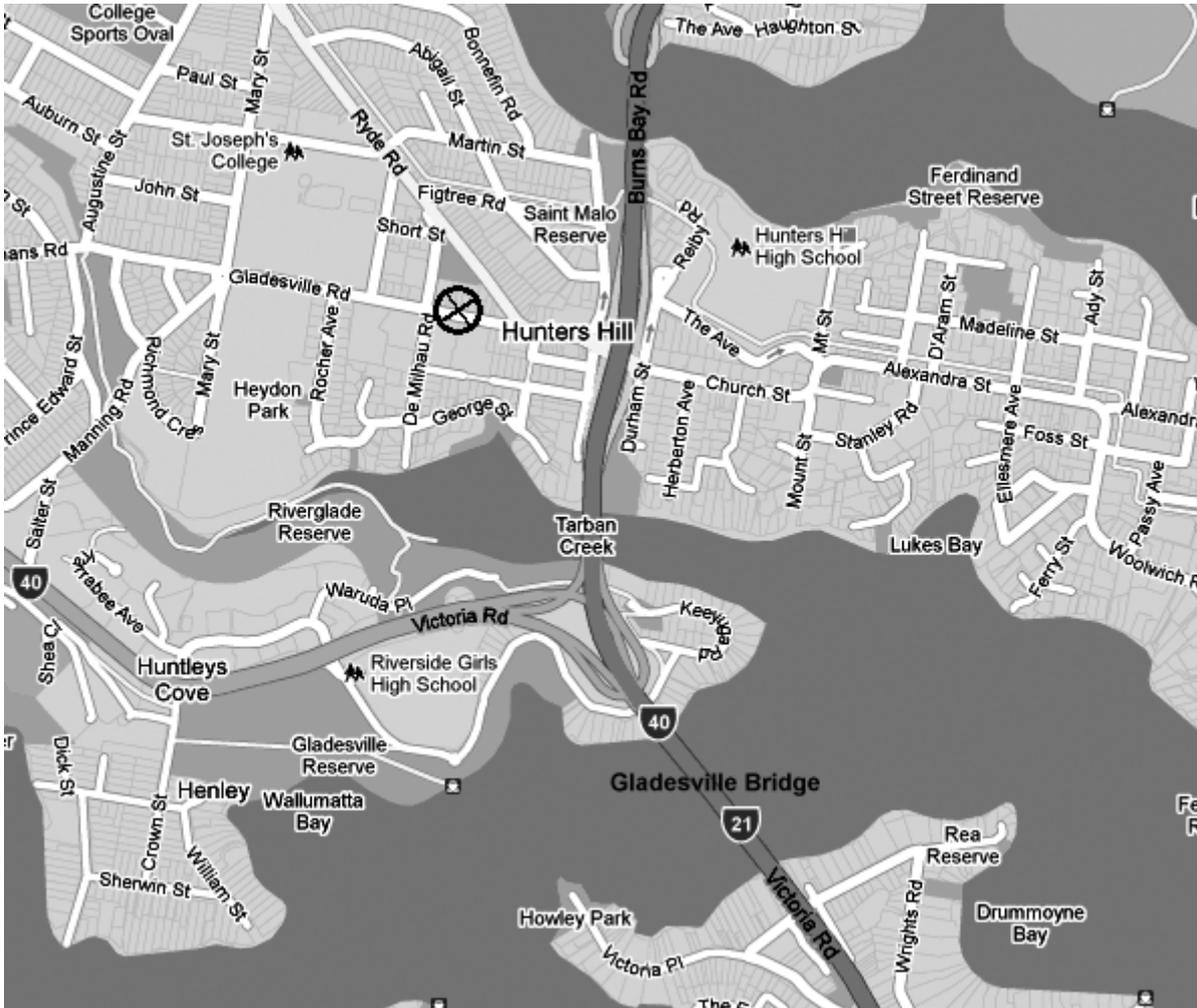

We will be looking at the various levels of consciousness in the brain and the ways we use them. We can simplify understanding and discussion of these levels by numbering them as we look at the different functions of each, and the ways they influence our outlook and understandings.

Dowsers use the pendulum as a way of detecting energies and communicating with the deeper layers of our consciousness.

Anthony Emmett practiced as a reconstructive surgeon in Brisbane, teaching at the university as lecturer and professor. He has written many chapters, articles and books on surgical topics. Since retiring from medicine he writes and lectures on the philosophy of the human spirit, and ways of understanding this. He became an artist and sculptor after retiring from surgery.

His latest book is “Simple Spirituality”.
